Bay school board approves $553,500 renovations contract

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board has approved a contract for renovations the Bay Junior High School, S.J. Ingram and North Bay Elementary School buildings.

The low bidder on the project was Starks Contracting Company, Inc., of Biloxi, with a bid of $553,500.

The earliest possible starting date for the project is May 30, with completion required by Aug. 19, Architect Fred Wagner explained.

The approval of the bid was unanimous at a special Tuesday night board meeting. The bids were opened Monday and Wagner said he was pleased because all four of the bids received were under the cost he had estimated for the renovations.

The bids ranged from Starks' $553,500 to a high of $625,824. However, he said the tight time frame, specified to keep work confined to school vacation and keep it from carrying over into the 1988-89 term, definitely kept the number of bids down.

He said several good contractors had asked for bid packages but had called him back saying they could not complete the project in the allotted time.

In other business Tuesday, the board:

- Approved a school calendar for the 1988-89 school term, with two parent-teacher conference days included;
- Agreed to advertise for bids for a licensed and certified inspector who will develop an asbestos removal plan in compliance with the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act.
- Approved a resolution for a summer food program for children ages one to 18;
- Approved a $250 contract for computer maintenance; and
- Discussed personnel matters in executive session.

The board's next regular meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. May 9

County seeking input on agency space needs for proposed building

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors will ask several of their department heads Thursday what they might need in a proposed multi-purpose building.

The county is applying for Community Development Block Grant funds to finance the project, which Board President and Beat Two Supervisor Ronald Cuevas said is expected to cost about $700,000 to $800,000 and measure at least 20,000 square feet.

The board has selected an administrator for the grant application but has not yet met with a local architect who submitted the only bid for architectural services.

Cuevas said the supervisors may also try to talk to the architect on Thursday.

The building is one of the eight goals for the current term that the board announced in January shortly after taking office.

At the time, Cuevas explained that several agencies are housed in inadequate or outgrown buildings.

He said that the proposed site for the new building is on the county fairgrounds property on Longfellow Drive, and that the best spot for the structure would probably be at the front of the property, between Longfellow and the recently renovated fairgrounds building.

Cuevas said he feels that the county's offer of the land and some cash participation would probably make the grant application more attractive to the Governor's Office of State and Federal Programs, which allocates the funds on a competitive basis.

He did not know Monday just how much funding is available.

Some of the factors to be considered in the grant selection are the number of people the building would serve, the general income of those people and the percentage of the county's population receiving the services provided through use of the proposed building.

The agencies expected to be represented at the work session include the County Health Department, the County Welfare Department and the Hancock Cooperative Extension Service.

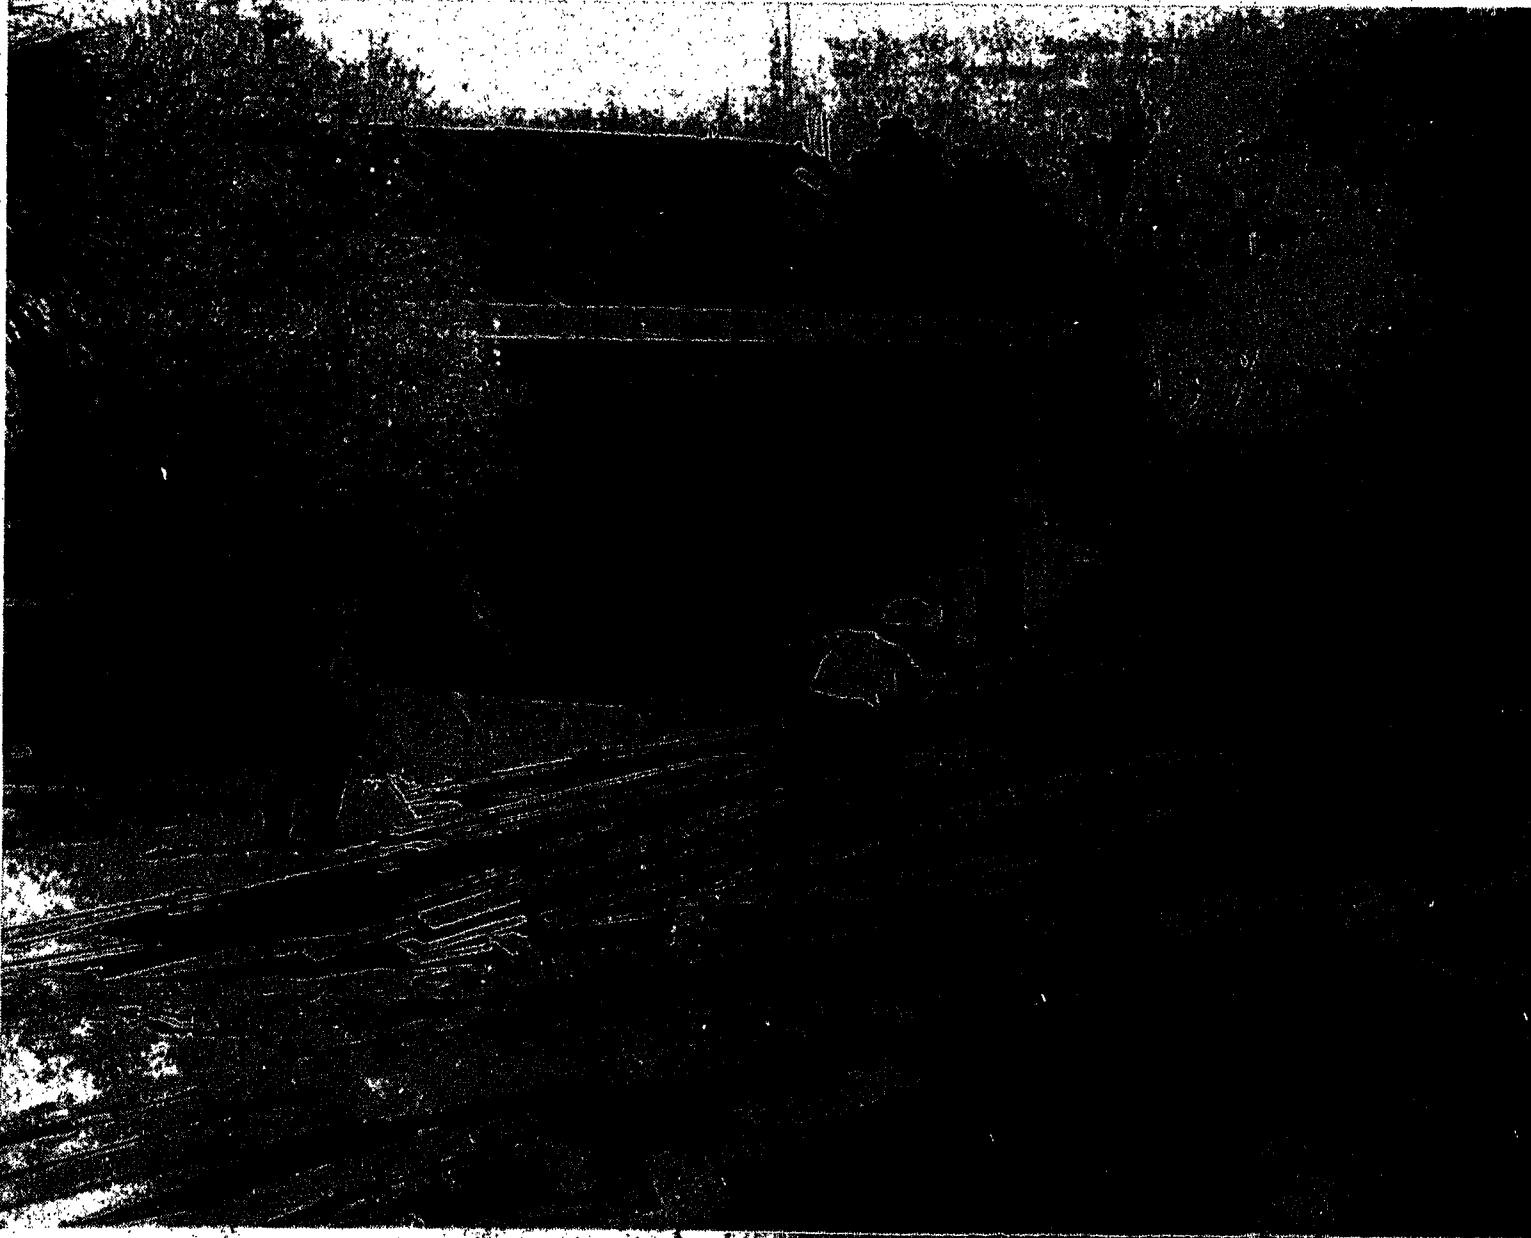

Other agencies currently housed in inadequate space include the county's home nursing and the county's child care center, both operating in outgrown quarters in a building next to the old Hancock General Hospital building.

The WIC program lost its warehouse last year when the building was sold and was down to make room for the new Mississippi Power Company office currently under construction, and a metal building behind Hancock General Hospital is being used.

That building was scheduled to be sold with Hancock General Hospital, vacant since the hospital moved into new quarters at Hancock Medical Center.

Cuevas said he does not know the status of a proposed sale of the facility, but said he has been since the State Legislature did not provide a certificate of need, the firm had to obtain money to open a skilled nursing facility in the old hospital.

Also scheduled to be sold with the Hancock General building is

BUILDING DONATED TO COUNTY—Hancock County sheriff's deputies clean and stack lumber from a building donated by the Main Street United Methodist Church, Bay St. Louis. Sheriff Ronald Peterson said the materials will be used at the county farm for the construction of a sorting building and other construction at the facility. The building on Court and South Second Streets was the former Moreau residence. The Methodist Church plans a parking lot on the property. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Hancock United Way reaches 1988 goal

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The United Way of Hancock County has reached a goal of $65,000 for the 1987-1988 campaign.

The campaign began in September, 1987 for the 1988 funds and it appeared the goal would not have been reached, but a payroll deduction report for Hancock County residents working at DuPont's DeLisle Plant made the goal possible, according to a report to the directors by Conrad Mauffray, executive director.

Chuck Benvenuti, Hancock United Way president, said, "I am very happy with DuPont's employee contributions through payroll deductions, as this has enabled us to meet the commitments to all of our agencies for 1988."

Benvenuti added, "I would like to express a sincere appreciation to all of the campaign chairman and committee members who have made this fund drive a success."

Our drive, of course, would not be successful without the voluntary efforts of so many, and the cooperation and help of all other citizens who make annual contributions," Benvenuti stated.

The Hancock County United Way aids some 17 agencies.

Lonnie Clayborn, campaign chairman, with Bob Breeden, Rosary Eble, David Treutel Jr., Kathy Hernandez and Lou Hall, co-chairmen.

NSTL to manage new NASA program

The National Space Technology Laboratories will manage a new program for NASA Headquarters to develop commercial applications for space-based and airborne remote sensing technologies.

NSTL's Earth Resources Laboratory will be responsible for nine commercial research projects selected by NASA last week.

Public sector applications projects and those requiring significant technology development will be managed by the Earth Science and Applications Division of NASA's Office of Space Science and Applications in Washington.

Funding for the projects represents the initiation of a new program aimed at increasing broader use of NASA-developed technology for gathering and analyzing valuable information about Earth and ocean resources through remote satellite or aircraft observations.

The program, jointly sponsored by NASA's Office of Space Science and Applications and Office of Commercial Programs, will fund up to $4 million of research annually.

Projects funded under the program will identify and research new commercial products and services that might be developed from use of existing technology and explore ways of improving and expanding the uses of remote sensing by public agencies.

The 20 projects were selected for negotiation leading to one-year funding contracts, with options to extend funding two additional years.

The NSTL-managed projects included developing methods to use satellite data for forest resources management, applying airborne images for commercial fishing and using satellite data to estimate potato production.

PRM drama hour to feature "Paul Temple" and "Ruby"

British radio's favorite super-sleuth and a wise-cracking intergalactic gumshoe come to life as Public Radio in Mississippi presents two new dramatic series, "Paul Temple" and "Ruby," beginning Sunday, Apr. 24, at 6 p.m.

The most popular detective in British radio history is neither Sherlock Holmes nor Lord Peter Winsey. "Paul Temple" and his lovely wife Steve are the English equivalent of Nick and Nora Charles of the "Thin Man" series. Their warm, sophis-cated, bantering relationship is as much a part of the Temple mystique as the intricate plots.

During his run on PRM, Paul Temple will solve two cases: The Vandyke Affair and the Gilbert Case. British actor Peter Coke portrays the debonair Paul Temple, and Marjorie Westbury is Steve.

"Ruby" is a whimsical and takes pot shots at modern technology, pseudo-mysticism and corny old movies while featuring sophisticated special audio effects.

Bay council approves handicapped ordinance

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis City Council has approved a handicapped parking ordinance for all public parking areas in the city.

On a unanimous vote Tuesday night, the council agreed to adopt an ordinance similar to one recently enacted by the City of Biloxi.

The ordinance is based on Section 27-19-56 of the Mississippi Code, which authorizes physically handicapped people to display on their vehicles the international wheelchair symbol designating a handicapped person. Display of the sticker allows the driver to park in a space designated for the handicapped.

Cards with the wheelchair logo are also available for non-handicapped drivers who transport handicapped passengers.

The ordinance prohibits anyone not designated as handicapped from using handicapped parking spaces and can be enforced on private property only at the owner's request.

The ordinance, which becomes effective in 30 days, provides for enforcement through a fine of "not more than $100 for each such violation."

Anyone who needs a handicapped parking sticker may obtain one through the Hancock County Tax Collector's office.

In other business Tuesday, the council:

—Accepted a 225-signature petition presented by Rita Blaize-Watson in support of a council decision allowing Bay Technical to locate one of its facilities in the St. Charles Street area;

—Upheld a city board of adjustments decision granting Vickie Goodman a temporary permit for use of a mobile home as a sales office at her used mobile home center on US-90;

—Approved a Health Department proposal asking that the city not issue privilege licenses for a specific business;

—Authorized payment of $22,928 for two police cars and about $1,400 for police camera equipment; and —Discussed an extension of a sewer line along US-90 in the poor Street area.

Board splits vote 3-2, denies Rhodes top job

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board has voted three to two not to assign Billy Rhodes as Bay Senior High School Principal.

Superintendent of Education Roger Oge said Wednesday that he had recommended rehiring Rhodes, who has been acting principal since January, and assigning him as Bay Senior High principal.

Due to the board's action, which occurred at a special meeting on Tuesday night, Rhodes will complete the current school term as acting principal but will be considered as having assistant principal status when the board determines administrator assignments for 1988-89, Oge said.

Rhodes had been an assistant principal for about four years before taking the interim job upon resignation of former Bay High Principal Frank Ladner, who left the education field to take a job in the private sector.

Oge said the only administrative assignment confirmed so far for next year has been that of W.J. Cameron, who is moving from being Bay Junior High Principal into a new district central office position, administrative principal.

Oge said his recommendation was followed by a motion from Board Member Linda Penrose asking that Rhodes not be rehired as principal. Voting with Penrose were Betty Diboll and Willie Bradley.

Board members L.D. Carter and Charles Benvenuti voted against the motion, indicating that they approved Oge's recommendation to hire Rhodes.

Rhodes said Wednesday morning that the decision had been "a shock."

He said he had had no indication that he would not be approved, other than that he was not immediately approved as principal rather than interim principal when he was named to succeed Ladner.

Rhodes said he hopes that when he is considered an assistant principal he is assigned to the high school.

"I'm accustomed to this age group, the teachers here and the programs," he said. "I feel like I've established myself."

He said he feels he has been getting good support from Oge, the teachers, and his family and friends in the principal's job, as well as from Benvenuti and Carter.

Rhodes declined comment on why he was not rehired as principal until he has been provided with written reasons.

"I thought everything had been going smoothly... accreditation, evaluation and new programs being implemented. I had no idea."

Two charged in cycle theft

BY DENA BISNETTE

Two men have been arrested in connection with theft of a motorcycle.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Nathan Hoda said Richard J. Winslow, 21, of Shoreline Park and Irie P. Phillips, 18, of Bay-Side Park, were arrested Tuesday evening and charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft of a Yamaha motorcycle valued at $800.

Bond was set at $3,000 each and both remained in jail Wednesday afternoon.

Hoda was assisted in the arrests by Deputy George Burleson.

Woman arrested

BY DENA BISNETTE

A woman wanted on a Jackson Police Department warrant has been arrested in Bay St. Louis.

Bay St. Louis Police Department Detective Chuck James said Donna C. Parker, #54 Bay Royale Apartments, Bay St. Louis, was arrested at about 4:30 p.m. by Officer Richard Hannah at Hancock Medical Center.

James said the warrant included five counts of false pretense and one charge of bond jumping.

Parker was turned over to the Jackson Police Department.

Two men rescued after boat capsizes

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Personnel have rescued two men whose boat overturned in front of Bay Oaks Drive.

Deputy Dennis Tartavouille spotted the overturned boat and two people in the water shortly before 9:30 a.m. Monday, Sheriff Ronald Peterson said.

William Caldwell of Rt. 2, Box 171, Pass Christian, and Byron Wilson of Ocean Springs told authorities that a strong wave hit the side of the 17-foot bass boat they were riding in and flipped the craft.

The two held on to the overturned boat for about 25 minutes before they were rescued by Auxiliary Deputy Peter Marchetta and Captain Jim Odom, who used the sheriff's department rescue boat to pick up Caldwell and Wilson and take them to the American Legion Veterans' Memorial Pier at Washington Street, Peterson said.

The sheriff added that the two were about a half-mile from the shoreline when the accident occurred.

Neither man was injured.

The school career fair held at Bay Senior High on Monday night was most successful.

There was great participation by students, business leaders and professionals.

The event was sponsored by Bay High School and the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce with assistance from the Bay St. Louis and Waveland American Legion Auxiliaries.

One of the most rewarding factors was the number of young ladies and men who visited the volunteers from the many career fields our area now offers.

It was too many years ago when a college graduate from this area in the majority of fields would have to look elsewhere for employment.

Two Bay High teachers who should really receive praise are Gloria Dean and Wendy Rupp who coordinated the career fair.

The career fair was open to all high school students of the area and it was good to see students from other schools in attendance.

We are sure many students will be looking forward to next year's career fair.

We are still in a learning process on our new typesetting equipment at the Echo and are amazed at how many different functions we will now be able to perform on our new computers.

One of the problems I seem to have is getting used to the keyboard, because in learning to type, working in a communications center and numerous equipment changes over the years at the Echo, I have typed on probably 25 or 30 different key arrangements of sorts.

Our new keyboards have many more commands compared to the previous equipment.

It is good to be back in 'school' again.

We are glad that Hancock County Deputy sheriffs Nathan (Corky) Hoda and Eddie Thornton were honored for their rescue of a kidnap victim on Christmas Eve.

In a shootout the abductor was killed and this emphasizes how a law officer never knows when he has to place his life on the line.

Law officials say Hoda and Thornton handled the incident to perfection under the circumstances, as many folks could have been hurt or killed in the incident.

We again would like to extend our commendation to Hoda and Thornton for a job well done.

IN CONGRESS By Cong. Trent Lott

FEDERAL EMPLOYEES By Congressman Trent Lott Mississippi

Too often it seems to me, we forget to say thank you to the men and women who spend their lives serving our country. In this case I'm not referring to the brave people in our military, to whom we should always be thankful, but our dedicated civil servants.

The federal employee is a vital cog in the government machine. She is the one who makes sure that you get your Social Security check each month. He is the one who delivers your mail each day. And together, they are the ones who provide us with the services that we have come to expect and demand.

Many of these workers are stationed in Washington, D.C. In my opinion that is a mistake. Most of the federal employees I talk with tell me that they could do a more effective job out "in the field." It just makes more sense to have additional Wildlife and Fishery workers in Mississippi and less of them in our nation's capital.

But I think there is more we can do. I would like to see our civil servants be allowed to participate in the political process, just like other Americans. The Hatch Act now prevents that. I don't think we should scrap the Hatch Act because it does provide needed protection; however, I think we must continue to search for a way to allow those federal employees who do want to participate in politics, the same opportunity the rest of us enjoy.

We must also look for a way to alleviate the financial burden created by the repeal of what is known as the "three-year basis recovery rule." Congress abolished the rule without adequate opportunity for comment or objection by those affected by this action.

In eliminating the recovery rule, by means of the 1986 Tax Reform Bill, Congress sent a message to all federal employees—that they are not worthy of the special transition consideration afforded other groups affected by the tax reform law and that there is no merit to financial planning, since the "rules of the game" may change at any time.

This of course was the wrong message, to send to any group of workers, and it's one that needs correcting. I am now working with my colleagues in the House to do just that.

Our civil servants, who perform most of the vital services required to meet your needs, deserve a better message. We must tell them, but more importantly show them, that they have our respect, our attention, and our thanks.

"Mr. Knight, my father says play me or trade me or give me a better seat on the bench!"

Report from the Senate

At the expiration of last week's deadline for Senate committee consideration of bills earlier passed by the House, 142 bills of general nature were still alive in the legislative process.

Some of these bills which await action by the full Senate are:

► A bill to provide assistance in the collection of bad checks.

► Four "tort reform" bills which revise civil liability laws. The bills would provide limited civil immunity to people acting in good faith in a volunteer capacity for a non-profit body; reduce the statute of limitations for the filing of civil claims from six to three years; allow judges to assess attorney fees and costs against attorneys or parties bringing frivolous suits; and allow physicians and attorneys to serve on juries.

► Provide state funds for remedial instruction to raise students' attainment of skills to that appropriate for their age.

► Toughen the penalties for shoplifting and modernize the law to include offenses such as altering the price of an item.

► Require children age 12 and under to wear flotation devices while on board a boat less than 26 feet in length when the boat is underway.

I am pleased to report that the House has passed the regulation of sports agents bill which I introduced and led to passage in the Senate. The House did make some changes but I feel that these differences can be worked out so that the bill can go on to the Governor for his signature.

The Senate acted on a number of bills during the week including a bill which could be a big help to our rural areas in their economic development efforts. The bill establishes a trust fund which local governments could use to construct roads for industries which make at least a $50 million investment.

The Senate passed a bill to allow the condition of a fire truck rather than its age be considered in setting the fire insurance rating for the area. This should help some of our rural districts which have older equipment which is in excellent running condition. The rating determines fire insurance premiums.

Another bill which the Senate passed would give the Attorney General the authority to investigate "white-collar" crimes such as consumer fraud, bank and institutional fraud, fraud by mail, wire, radio or television, embezzlement, insurance fraud, bribery, kickbacks, payoffs, computer fraud, fraud by credit card and check, public integrity fraud, and public official corruption.

The Senate and House have both given final passage to a bill which raises the maximum weekly benefit for unemployment compensation from $130 to $145. This bill now goes to the Governor for his consideration.

The Senate also voted to extend the school nurse intervention program which allows school districts to employ nurses in the junior high schools to deal with the health issues such as personal hygiene, nutrition, alcohol and drug abuse, child abuse, and sight and hearing testing. The bill was amended to require that girls and boys be placed in separate classes for sex education classes and that parents must give written consent for their children to be taught about reproduction.

During the last month of the legislative session, various conference committees, each composed of three Senators and three Representatives, will be working out compromises on a number of bills which have passed the Senate and house in different versions. Some of these include the teacher pay increase, the state employee pay raise, the abolishment of the Board of Corrections, the county unit system, and the referendum on calling a constitutional convention.

I value your comments and would be glad to hear from you at any time. You may write to me at the Mississippi State Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, Mississippi 39205 or call me at 359-3770.

The People's Business

From Mississippi Economic Council

The year was 1974 and the state was awash with reports of poor use of county resources and of poor management of counties. In one area, county officials were allegedly using development funds for political purposes; using those funds, in fact, to oppose legislation mandating the unit system of county road management.

The then chairman of the County Affairs Committee of the Mississippi House of Representatives decried the use of development funds for political purposes and pledged that his committee would consider mandatory county unit legislation in the 1974 session.

In that session, lawmakers enacted a series of county reform bills, falling short of mandatory county unit. Instead, they passed a bill requiring central purchasing for county supervisors as a means of improving money management, and they adopted stronger penalties for misuses of public funds.

They also provided an option for employment of a county administrator. But they left mandatory county unit for another day.

Mississippi has been living under those central purchasing and misuses of funds laws for 14 years now.

And the result? Apparent widespread misuse of public funds, too little accountability, and a sweeping federal JACKSON—I really don't need to be reminded of the 1968 session of the Mississippi Legislature. How could I, or anyone who has been exposed to that ordeal 20 years ago, forget it?

It was the longest, wildest legislative session in Mississippi history, lasting for 32 weeks. It started in January, and did not end until the second week in August.

Mercifully, it was also the last unlimited, biennial session of the Mississippi Legislature.

The 1968 Legislature finally made me realize what legislators meant all those years when they got up and addressed their colleagues as "this august body."

That was in the days before the state Capitol was air-conditioned, and the old building got pretty steamy as the summer droned on. At least window units had been installed in the House and Senate chambers or the lawmakers couldn't have possibly stood it.

Before the marathon session ended, there had been fist-fights, and long angry night sessions. During one hectic late night meeting, a lawmaker leaped on top of his desk and began exhorting his colleagues at the top of his lungs to join him in support of his bill.

This was the session at which former state Rep. Jerry Wilburn of Metchie gave his unforgettable "General Cluster" speech in a last ditch effort against raising the state sales tax from 3 to 5 percent. ("I know how General Cluster felt when he seen all them Indians...")

Just as a $3,700 teacher pay raise is the overriding issue at the 1988 session, raising teachers' salaries $1,300 was the highest priority item in 1968. But the prolonged battle came over raising both the state sales tax and the income tax to fund the teacher raises.

The lawmakers wound up raising both taxes in what was the largest single tax hike in state history up until that time. Expected to raise about $45 million a year, in reality the tax hike produced more like $65 million a year, far more than went to the teacher pay raises.

There is another bit of déjà vu when comparing the 1988 session to the 1968 session. Lawmakers back then went home concerned that they had made a mistake putting too many eggs in the teacher pay raises while starving other programs and slighting state employees.

The latter is also the thorny budget problem which the 1988 session must still resolve before it goes home early next month.

Virtually by accident, the 1968 session was responsible for at last giving Mississippi annual, limited sessions of the Legislature. The 1890 constitution provided for the Legislature to meet in regular session every two years, and there was no limit in the constitution as to how long the sessions could be.

For several decades, the biennial sessions had become more protracted and time-wasting, and long special sessions were having to be called in off years to take care of the state's business.

The voters in the 1950s had turned down a constitutional amendment to hold annual sessions of the Legislature, and lawmakers were loathe to try it again even though some could see there was growing public unrest over the interminable long legislative meetings.

As usual, a constitutional amendment calling for annual, limited sessions of the Legislature had been rejected in the House Constitution Committee at the 1968 session.

But it was put on the calendar by a minority report, a procedure that places it at the heel of the legislative agenda and makes it almost impossible to pass.

To the great surprise of many, backers were able to get the annual session amendment up for a vote. Then more surprise, they succeeded in getting the two-thirds vote necessary for approval. Most lawmakers, however, figured there was no chance the amendment would be ratified by the voters.

But as the 1968 session droned on, and the people were obviously tired of open-ended meetings of the Legislature, the annual, limited session amendment won ratification at the polls.

Ever since then, the Legislature has been struggling with self-imposed deadlines in order to comply with 90-day limit on regular sessions, except for 125 days in the first session of each new administration.

Now, the main complaint is not that the Legislature is undisciplined as it was before limited sessions, but that lawmakers use the deadlines as a convenient graveyard for more than two-thirds of the bills introduced at each session.

At least, however, it is no longer an "august" body.

Governor's Weekly Column

Gov. Ray Mabus

I'm happy to report this week that the state of Mississippi is a lot closer today to a good, efficient and responsive system of county government than we were about two months ago when I took office.

Both the Mississippi Senate and the House of Representatives have passed legislation supporting the unit system of county government, although some differences have to be worked out.

While the term, "unit system," may be confusing, all it means is that professional administrators would run day-to-day county operations. County supervisors would clearly be the policy makers.

Not only will this add professionalism and efficiency to the delivery of services, it will help close the door on corruption.

There is an overwhelming body of evidence showing that the unit system is a cost saver. Much of this evidence comes from those Mississippi counties that have voluntarily gone to the unit system of government.

And, in the case of particularly small counties, I have supported bill provisions that I believe would ensure that the unit system is affordable.

I told you earlier this year that I believed the legislature's interest in passing such a bill was greater than ever, and that such legislation was one of the first major steps in making 1988 as "The Year of Making Government Work Better."

I said that halfway, halting steps would not solve the problems faced in most counties, and that the time for trial and error had passed.

What has happened in the last two months indicates that the legislature agrees.

It is important to note that both chambers of the legislature have said that by their votes that the unit system of government is an important reform. It has tremendous potential to ensure that people get the most out of their county government at the least cost.

The citizens of Mississippi should ask no less of us, their elected officials. And we should give them no less. It is the essence of representative government.

Three Wildcat victories listed

Pearl River College's regular April Board of Trustees meeting was a little bit different Tuesday afternoon.

Instead of customary pie and coffee immediately following the governing session, the PRC Board was treated to a baseball game between the Wildcats and the Jones Bobcats.

It was the first time that the PRC Board had turned out in full force to witness a Cat baseball game. For President Ted J. Alexander, who had arranged the afternoon at the ball park, and for Coach Jim Nightengale, the showing was very impressive.

As soon as the school bosses had settled in, with their brand new Wildcat seat cushions, the Pearl River bats exploded.

The cheese on the nachos hadn't even had time to cool before the Wildcats had recorded a 21-9 victory over the rival Bobcats.

In the nightcap, the fireworks continued as PRC slugged its way for a 10-5 win.

"I really don't know what happened," said Nightengale. "But if this is the way we will play with the board in the audience, maybe we could talk them into going on the road trips."

By the time the board was ready for their steak dinner, the Wildcats had knocked out 10 homeruns.

Richard White of Purvis and Jesse Logan of Waveland each hit three round-trippers.

The Wildcats continued their winning ways on Thursday with a 6-0 and 10-8 sweep of the Col-Lin Wolves.

Jesse Logan picked up the win in the first game and Bobby Jackson was notched with a save as the Wildcats shut out the Wolves 6-0. Devin Henry and Mike Weems each scored a double for PRCJ.

In the second game Andy Farrell scored the win and Logan picked up the save. Henry, Lee Mock and James Rogers each hit doubles, while Weems tripled to help the Cat cause.

This past Saturday the Wildcats made it a perfect week with 8-3 and 10-2 decisions over the Southwest Bears.

First year coach Nightengale says he isn't doing much to make the 20-11 Wildcats winners. "They're doing the job. They're playing good baseball. I'm just sitting back and letting them do it."

Saturday the bats of the Poplarville squad made believers out of the assembled crowd. The Wildcats picked up their eight first-game runs off eight hits, including three doubles, while in the second game, they scored 10 runs off seven hits, including two two-run home runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Game one was the Wildcats' from the start. In the bottom of the inning, the Wildcats sent all nine batters to the plate and sent four runners home. Highlight of the inning was a two-RBI single from Devin Henry and a two-RBI double from Paul Powell.

The Bears notched a single run in the second, off starter Todd Russell, but the Wildcats answered with one run each in the third and fourth, and two in the fifth.

Russell picked up the win, giving up one earned run on two hits, walking three and striking out two. Reliever Eddie Bourgeois scored the save, giving up two earned runs on two hits, walking two and striking out three.

Picayune native Andy Farrell scored the win in the second game as the Wildcats cracked open a close game in fine fashion.

Taking a 6-2 lead into the bottom of the sixth, second baseman Jay Artigues walked to get on with one out. Henry scored the second out, and it looked as though the Wildcats' reliever Bobby Jackson would have to work on that lead.

But outfielder Mike Weems tagged David Gay over the right field fence for a home run. Then, just as sudden, Richard White walked and Jesse Logan brought him home on a homer over center field.

WRIGHT DESIGN

Fallingwater, the dramatic architectural masterpiece designed in 1936 by Frank Lloyd Wright and located literally on a waterfall, is probably the most famous nonroyal residence in the world.

"The House on the Waterfall," a half-hour special at 10:30 p.m., Friday, April 22, on Mississippi ETV, explores the house's significance to its owners, to American architecture and to the public.

the old county home, which is on the old hospital grounds and houses the extension service.

That service includes four divisions, the county agent, home economics, 4-H and the Mississippi Forestry Service.

Another agency to be housed in the proposed building is the welfare department, currently housed in a dilapidated former creamery building on Necaise Avenue.

Other agencies which may be interested in relocation include the Hancock County Senior Citizens Program, presently in the Valena C. Jones Center, which is owned by the City of Bay St. Louis and furnished as an in-kind contribution to the program.

The Hancock County Child Development Center also needs new quarters. It is presently located on Third Street in rental quarters in a building that has been up for sale for some time.

Also on the list for the workshop are the county food stamp office, presently part of the welfare office; the local divisions of Gulf Coast Mental Health Center and Mississippi Vocational Rehabilitation, both in rented space; and the Hancock County Food Pantry, which is presently using a section of the old county jail behind the courthouse.

Flaming desserts to be demonstrated

The Kiln Public Library on Highway 603 will host a cooking demonstration of flaming desserts by Andrew Lott at 2 p.m. today as a part of National Library Week activities.

Lott is chef and owner of the Red Rooster Restaurant located across from the Kiln Library.

A native of Kiln, Lott grew up in a family devoted to the preparation and serving of good food. Lott studied classical French cookery at Le Cordon Bleu de Paris and served an apprenticeship with Master Chef Fernando Oca.

Lott was Executive Chef at Chez Oca Restaurant in Lake Charles, Louisiana, prior to returning to his home community to open the Red Rooster Restaurant.

At the Red Rooster, Lott combines his knowledge of classical French cooking with Southern and Acadian (Cajun) cuisine.

The demonstration at the library will include Crepes Suzette, Peach Melba and Strawberries Chantilly.

For more information call the Kiln Library at 255-1724.

Diamondhead Boaters Association

Some 126 members of the Diamondhead Boaters Association led by Commodore Tom Ballard and Flotilla Leader Tom McMurry, set out for Ship Island on the morning of Saturday, Apr. 9, aboard Kent Boyd's 'Kaybee', Harrie Devine's 'Lazy Bones', Bill Malcolm's 'Passport', Ed Nicholson's 'Serenity II', Ed Snow's 'Snowball', Curtis Stout's 'Barcavella', Strabo Claggett's 'Rainbow's End', Rex Foster's 'Sea Lark', Dick Alves' 'Encounter', Fred Peterson's 'Mary May', Bob Jacob's 'Bodiddly', Bob Meyers' 'Dulac', and Bill Cummings' 'Merger'.

With the exception of a few who had to turn back, all boats anchored at the island, and some of those aboard went ashore to relax and tour the island.

Fort Massachusetts, the beaches and sighting of dolphins were but a few of the day's highlights along with a box lunch catered by the Diamondhead Supermarket and buffet dishes prepared by women of the DBA. The tired boaters returned to the Diamondhead Marina during the afternoon to share happy dockside recaps of the day.

Welcome aboard to new members Bill and Ann Neff, Charles (Chuck) and Betty Howard and Leroy and Elizabeth Barnes.

There will be a boat show at the Marina April 30 to May 1.

The next meeting will be at Diamondhead's own 'Churchill Downs.' Come and join us for a Kentucky Derby Party—'A Day at the Races' at the Community Center. First race starts at 2 p.m.

City employee seeking Waveland Fourth Ward alderman post

A 54-year-old retired U.S. Navy chief petty officer is seeking the Fourth Ward post recently vacated by the retirement of Alderman Herman Yarborough.

Robert (Bob) Mulally of 1021 Hubbard St. has announced his candidacy for the position in the May 17 Special Election called to replace Yarborough and Alderman Louie Smolensky of Ward Three who recently resigned for professional reasons.

Mulally, who served as a master diver and chief damage control officer before retiring from the Navy in 1971 after 21 years of active duty, currently works for the City of Waveland as an equipment operator.

Following his retirement from the Navy, he worked with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and in the offshore oil industry as a diver supervisor.

Mulally, a native of Peoria, Ill., and his wife Ravalee have been residents of Waveland for the past 2.5 years.

He is a member of Waveland

ROBERT (BOB) MULALLY

American Legion Post No. 77 and The Fleet Reserve Association.

Mulally is the father of Michael Mulally who is on active duty with the U.S. Navy in Norfolk, Va.; Mrs. Karen Maurer of Belle Chasse, La.; step-father of Laura Schwartz of Biloxi and Joan Ganion of St. Augustine, Fla.

County Agent Notes

Swine nutrition

A correctly balanced ration is a must in a swine operation. Hancock County producers must make certain that the correct level of protein is being fed to a particular age pig. As soon as baby pigs start eating feed, they should receive a 20-24 percent ration until they are 40 pounds. A grower ration containing 16 percent protein should be fed until pigs are 100 pounds. From 100-220 pounds a 14 percent ration will be sufficient.

Gilts should receive 4-5 pounds of a 14 percent ration per day during gestation. During lactation feed should be increased to 12 pounds per day.

Water is very important, it should be clean and a sow should have access to 6 gallons per day.

All swine should be treated for internal and external parasites on a regular basis.

Home Vegetable Garden

Gardening has been a rough proposition recently. Heavy rains have caused most soils to be extremely soggy. Many early planted gardens will have to be replanted due to seed rotting in the soil or from roots rotting. Most producers will have to sidedress earlier due to rains leaching out the nitrogen in the fertilizer.

Gardeners will have several new varieties to choose from this year. With tomatoes Celebrity and President as good as the older Creole. You may want to try T-822 Tropical Cropper No. 2, its supposed to have resistance to bacterial wilt. Squash—Crescent said to yield better than standard crookneck hybrids. Okra—Sun Star vigorous with many side shoots. Sweet corn—Candy Store, this is a really sweet one its ripe in 80 days.

Farmer's Market

The County Farmer's Market will be open soon. Many people shop the market to obtain fresh vegetables and good quality. Its also great to help our local farmers.

Baseball card show set at d'Iberville Hotel

A Coin, Jewelry and Baseball Card Show will be held at the Royal d'Iberville Hotel in Biloxi Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Show hours will be noon to 6 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Styne music revue set as KNS theatre debut

BY DENA BISNETTE
Three Gulf Coast theatre regulars, including two from Bay St. Louis, will introduce a new production company Saturday night with "I've Heard That Song Before: the Music of Jule Styne."

The show, a musical review featuring Styne's compositions for Broadway shows and movies from the 1930s to the 1960s, is an original program put together by Kinard Fite, artistic director; Garry Lamb, music director; and Sharon Loiacano, choreographer, for Kinetic Neo-Skene Theatre.

Lamb and Loiacano, as well as several cast members, are both Bay residents.

Lamb said the show is different from previous revues both because it is based on music of a composer who is still living and because of its structure, which intersperses the music with scenes in which actors play Styne's many collaborators and associates.

"They come out and talk to the audience and to each other about Styne's music and what was going on in his life when he was writing each piece," Lamb said.

"This has not been done on the coast before and it has never been done using the music of a living composer," he added.

Styne composed music for shows including Funny Girl, Gentlemen Prefer Blondes, High Button Shoes, Gypsy, Sugar and Hallelujah, Baby.

"People will hear this music and recognize it, even if they don't remember what show it is from," Lamb said.

Lamb and Loiacano both emphasized that the revue has "something for everyone."

Loiacano, who not only choreographed the production but also taught dances to the all-volunteer cast, said the show contains types of dancing ranging from tap to ballroom.

"This is totally different from my work in my studio."

There is much more jazz and tap, which don't have any rules. I teach classical ballet and there are a lot of rules in that form of dance," she said.

"This kind of dance can be taught to people who are not as highly trained. People can learn the dances for this show whether they are dancers or not. For classical ballet, I would need dancers with that specific type of training."

She said the show is less restrictive than a scripted musical, particularly since the music is from several different time periods and therefore includes several different styles.

Lamb, who chose the music, said he believes the dancing will definitely carry the show.

"When people come to the theatre, this is what they like to see—lots of movement," Lamb said.

The revue includes the qualities that Fite had in mind when he named KNS, he added.

"Kinetic conveys the idea of lots of energy, neo means new and skene is a Greek spelling for scene," Lamb explained.

The show involves a cast as varied as the music, with people ranging from age 13 to senior citizens. Many have appeared in KNS productions before.

Those from Bay St. Louis include Glenda Coss, Gayle Roy, Bill Burns, Tawny Zanca, Sherry Schwabacher and Claudia Murphy.

"I've Heard That Song Before" is a fundraising project to help finance the first KNS season, scheduled to include Wizard of Oz, Cabaret and Jesus Christ Superstar.

The revue will be staged at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Gulfport High School Auditorium; the company will move the Saenger Theatre in Biloxi for future productions.

Tickets are $5 and may be obtained by calling 435-1738 and 864-7832.

Lamb said the show should appeal to a varied audience.

"It's a feel-good production with a little something for everybody."

Vicksburg to host Riverfest '88

"Riverfest '88" will be a full weekend of family fun in Vicksburg Friday, Apr. 22 through Sunday, Apr. 24. This is the second year for the festival and many activities and events have been added since "Riverfest '87" drew an estimated 8,000 people to the "Red Carpet City" on the Mississippi.

Activities planned for this year begin on Friday night with a block party in the downtown area featuring two local bands and refreshments provided by local restaurants and organizations.

Saturday, there will be a March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon, a biathlon and a Taekwondo black belt competition.

For the children, there will be a mud sculpture contest, frog races and a whitewashing contest.

Free entertainment is scheduled in the downtown amphitheater from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Other events include an antique car show, a wild game and fish cook-off in the City Park (complete with a hoot owl calling contest and live music to add to the festivities).

Recently added events include a pool tournament and darts tournament. There will be a Riverfest Invitational Softball tournament during the weekend with approximately 70 men's and women's teams participating.

This year will mark the 20th anniversary of the Vicksburg Arts and Crafts show, to be held at the Old Courthouse Museum on Saturday. Over 200 exhibitors will be demonstrating their talents and selling their handiwork. There will be special events designed to celebrate the anniversary.

"Gold in the Hills," an audience-reaction melodrama, will be performed on the showboat, Mamie S. Barrett. Performances are scheduled for Friday and Saturday. Excerpts will be performed during the day Saturday at the downtown amphitheater on Washington Street.

Sunday will be "Superstar" day with athletic competition between local "superstars" followed by a cook-out in the City Park. There will also be a boat race, featuring Outlaws on the Water on Sunday.

"Riverfest '88" is sponsored jointly by the Vicksburg-Warren County Chamber of Commerce and the Vicksburg Main Street Program.

For more information on lodging, a complete schedule of events, entry fees and regulations, contact the Burger King Whoppers completed their soccer season with an Awards Day Sunday. Coach Leo Laurent stated that the team showed sportsmanship, hustle and skills of the game throughout the season. He congratulated the entire team for its effort, stating he is proud to be their coach. Laurent said each player received a trophy. Special awards at the event included 'Mr. Hustle' to Michael Sanders, 'Mr. Defense' to Michael Perniciaro, 'Mr. Goale' to Kevin Watts and 'Most Improved' to Mark Johnson. "Thanks to Burger King, Sean McWaters, team mother Marian Laurent and team parents for making this soccer program a success for the kids," Laurent added.

Laurent Jr., Steven Sones, Christopher Russ, Mark Johnson, Michael Perniciaro, Sean Ziegler, Jason Maufrey and team mother Marian Laurent.

PARENTS CITED—Michelle Perniciaro, left, and Ruth Sanders receive plaques from Whoppers Coach Leo Laurent for their support of team fund-raiser events.

JEFF GOSCINSKI, manager of Burger King in Bay St. Louis, receives a plaque for his contributions to the team.

Summer baseball camp dates announced

The LSU and SLU Summer Camp office announces the 10th Steve Carter/Pelican Tennis Camp on the campus of SLU in Hammond and LSU in Baton Rouge, La.

Fuel tank tips

What's the most important piece of safety equipment on your outboard motor? Well, for me it's definitely the fuel tank.

Gasoline, as every boater knows, is a very volatile substance. That's why the fuel tank is a very important piece of equipment. It's one item not to be taken for granted.

Before you head out on the lake or river next time, take a few moments to inspect your fuel tank. In fact, tear this column out for easy reference when inspecting your tank. Look for leaks, large dents that might turn into leaks and loose or damaged fittings.

If you find any problems, it's probably time to invest in a new tank. Don't be one of those boaters who take the explosive power of six gallons of gas for granted. Just one spark or wind-blown cigarette butt could spell disaster.

Here's some good advice on fuel tank features from the friendly people at OMC Parts & Accessories, who make fuel tanks for Johnson and Evinrude outboards.

Fuel line fittings—"Start by shopping at the dealership where you bought the motor," advises Paul Hunt, a fuel systems engineer at OMC in Waukegan, Ill. "The dealer can sell you a tank with fittings engineered to match your motor. We see a lot of after-market tanks that use fuel line adapters which may offer some compromises.

The biggest problem is usually restricted fuel flow at the primer bulb or tank outlet. This may not allow enough fuel to reach the motor at full throttle, which can be disastrous, causing it to run so lean that the motor is ruined.

"A tank from the motor manufacturer will be designed to provide the proper fuel flow rate at all RPMs," Hunt said.

Tank construction—"The Tank should be made of heavy-gauge steel, not the thinner metal used in lawn mower gas cans," Hunt advises. "The best tanks will also have a weld seam around the base, which is stronger and less prone to leakage than a crimped or press-fit seam."

"Accidents can occur when internal pressure builds up to the point of bursting poor-quality tanks," Hunt said. "This pressure usually occurs due to changing temperatures. You may fill the tank up early in the morning when the air is cool, but by noon the tank is sitting in the sun and the gas vapor expands."

"OMC tanks are designed as pressure vessels, using the same principles that apply to propane tanks, for example. They can withstand internal pressures of up to 25 pounds per square inch," Hunt emphasized.

WHAT IS YOUR FITNESS LEVEL?

Slidell Memorial Hospital's "Excellence in Health" screening program can help you identify your fitness level. We'll test your blood pressure, height, weight, cholesterol level, and your body composition for one $30 fee.

Body compositions will be done using the latest Valhalla Scientific Body Composition Analyzer. This computer will give you percentage of body fat, pounds of fat, lean body mass, calories needed to maintain weight or to lose weight, and calories used up during certain exercises. An individualized COMPUTER PRINTOUT will be given to every person along with additional health information.

Nutritional and weight loss programs, monitored by our physicians, are available.

Call for an appointment with Dr. L. Kathleen McDonald at our SMH Clinic, 987 Robert Road at 643-3803.

Appointments also available at our Lacombe and South Slidell medical centers.

Flotilla schedules new series on boating skills, safety

Bay-Waveland Flotilla, United States Coast Guard Auxiliary plans another public education class on 'Boating

Skills and Seamanship.' A flotilla class completed in March graduated 17 students. For six nights starting at 7 p.m., Monday, May 9, two classes per week will be held through May 26.

These classes will be taught at the Diamondhead Community Center.

Flotilla commander Gordon Stone said 13 major subjects to be covered include The Safe Way to Boating, Boating, Boating, Language and Trailing, Boat Handling, Legal Requirements, Rules of the Road, Aids to navigation, Piloting, Marine Machines, Marlinspike Seamanship, Sailing, Weather, Radio Telephone and Locks and Dams.

Total fee is $12 which covers cost of textbooks and materials, he added.

"Completion of the course makes it possible for all to better enjoy their boating experiences in a safe manner," Stone stated, adding, "Also, since the course and textbook is strictly in accordance with Coast Guard practices, completion can be the first step toward application for membership in the Coast Guard Auxiliary."

The Bay-Waveland Flotilla won the Coast Guard Division Award for 'Best Accomplishment in Public Training' for 1987.

"We hope to continue this record in 1988," Stone said. Those interested should contact Stone at 467-7266 or Harrie Devine, public education officer, at 255-1298.

Legion State Baseball Tournament dates reported

Dates for the 1988 American Legion State Championship Baseball Tournament have been set for Aug. 4 through 7 at Mississippi College in Clinton with Jackson's Henry H. Graves Post No. 1 the sponsoring Post this year.

Legion Baseball Commissioner W.T. "Tack" Grant of Plantersville said there will be a minimum of eight teams entered in the tournament with the probability of four more.

That number includes the Bay St. Louis Post No. 139 Team managed by Ronnie Artigues.

"We're attempting to get some posts which have dropped the program to re-instate it," Grant said. Each Legion team carries 18 players on its roster, opening the tournament to over 200 youth between the ages of 16 and 18.

American Legion Baseball has been played continuously since 1925, with more than 2 million young men having participated since its inception 63 years ago. Grant said that today more than 50 percent of all Major League baseball players are graduates of American Legion Baseball.

"Legion Baseball has the same objective as Boys and Girls State," Grant said. "We are trying to build character and leadership qualities into these young men because they are the leaders of tomorrow. We need the help and involvement, not only of every legionnaire, but every Mississippian."

SPACE STATION FINALIST

Danielle Gobert of Diamondhead Academy is among 30 Mississippi 6th and 7th graders who are named finalists in the Student Space Station Workshop. The workshop is a two-week science education project scheduled for July 10-24. Following intensive classroom instruction at Belhaven College in Jackson, students will visit the Johnson Space Flight Center in Houston, Tex.

Upon their return to Jackson, eight students and one teacher will spend four days on a simulated space mission aboard the Student Space Station. The remaining 22 students will operate Mission Control.

The station, 12 feet in diameter and 43 feet long, is a model of the actual space station NASA intends to launch in the 1990s. The Student Space Station is currently under construction on a site adjacent to the Planetarium in downtown Jackson.

Nursing honorary taps Lenora Cook

HATTIESBURG—Lenora Byars Cook of Bay St. Louis has been selected for membership in the Gamma Lambda chapter of Sigma Theta Tau national honor society of nursing at the University of Southern Mississippi.

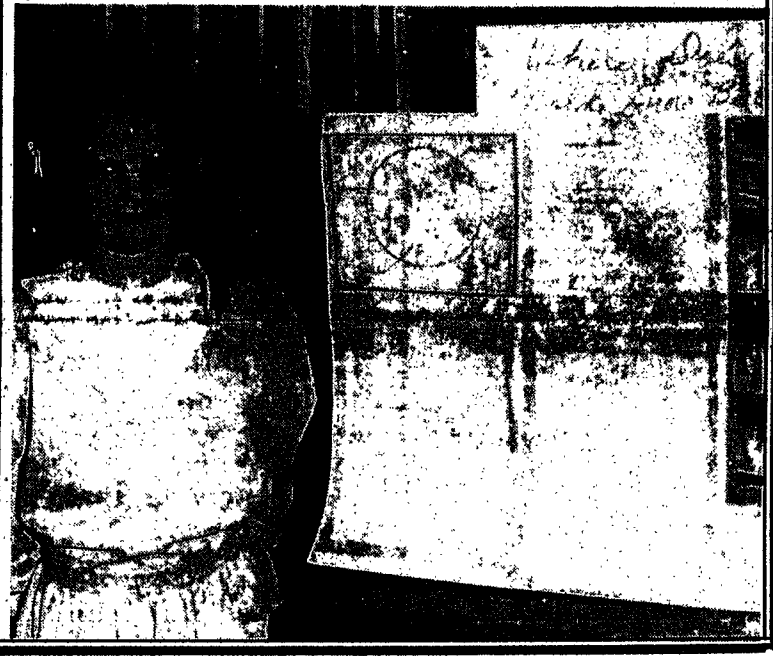

Membership in the society is based upon demonstrated superior achievement, evidence of professional leadership, potential and marked achievement in the field of nursing. The society's purposes include recognizing superior achievement, recognizing the development of leadership qualities, fostering high professional standards, encouraging creative work and strengthening commitment to the ideals and purposes of the profession.

New members will be inducted to the society during a 2 p.m. ceremony Apr. 14 in Harkins Hall on the USM campus.

Cook is a graduate student at USM.

Bicentennial Commission picks River campus

Pearl River Community College has been recognized as "designated Bicentennial Campus" by the Commission on the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution.

The "Designated Bicentennial Campus" program is designed to involve America's colleges and universities in the celebration of the Bicentennial of the Constitution and is open to all two and four-year institutions of higher education in the United States.

"Getting America's colleges and universities involved will be very beneficial to the Commission's overall plan of informing the American public about our constitution," said Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, chairman of the Commission on the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution.

"It is our hope that students, staff and administrators will design and promote Constitution-related activities, through a study of all articles and amendments to the Constitution, over the next four years."

The Bicentennial program at Pearl River is being coordinated by R. Willis Lott. PRC is one of hundreds of "Designated Bicentennial Campuses" recognized by the Commission.

The 1988 nominees include: Academic Instructor of the Year—Elizabeth Alsworth, Social Science; James Barnes, Science; Ann Donnell, Nursing; Elaine Kersh, Nursing; Mark Malone, Music; Victoria Walters, Mathematics.

Vocational Instructor of the Year—Doris Allen, Practical Nursing; Patricia Amacker, Cosmetology; Roy Jones, Automotive Mechanics.

Technical Instructor of the Year—Mark Avery, Related Studies; Beverly Boone, Marketing Management; Ann Morris, Business Technology.

Support Staff Member of the Year—Charles Alexander, Maintenance; Rhonda Henry, Maintenance; C.B. McDonald, Maintenance.

Administrative/Non-Teaching Professional of the Year—Gail Burt, Forrest County Vocational; Jeanne Dyer, Library; Vanda Fairley, Financial Aid; Miller Hamill, Student Affairs; Vada Lott, Academic Dean; Charlotte O'Brien, Nursing; James Oren, Vocational Dean; Larry Stanford, Public Relations.

Prospective students invited to Carey on the Coast

GULFPORT—High school juniors and seniors, junior college sophomores and other college students interested in transferring are invited to visit William Carey College on the Coast Saturday, April 23.

Plans for the day include registration and orientation, visits with financial aid and scholarship counselors and academic counseling. The Student Government Association will sponsor a noon barbecue and after-lunch entertainment will feature a challenge volleyball game between WCC students and faculty members.

Activities will begin at 10 a.m.

Parents are invited to visit with their prospective campus housing can be arranged for those who need overnight accommodations. Reservations or further details are available by calling (601) 865-1500.

USM alcohol awareness program wins national award

HATTIESBURG—More than 78 events focusing on alcohol awareness staged at the University of Southern Mississippi last year have netted the university a national award.

USM was among five institutions selected to receive 1987 National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week awards for programs designed to focus public attention on the problem.

"There were a large number of schools that submitted their programs for consideration. I'm pleased USM received the award, since a lot of people put in a considerable amount of hard work to make the program a success," said Dr. Peter Durkee, USM vice president for student affairs.

USM will receive a plaque commemorating its efforts, along with a $1,000 grant to be presented to program coordinator Dawn Gillis in March at a National Association of Student Personnel Administrators awards luncheon in St. Louis, Mo. Gillis serves as a counselor/instructor for the USM Counseling Center.

Gillis said the week-long alcohol awareness program was judged on the basis of types of activities and their implementation.

Senator urges Mississippi students to 'play active, personal role'

WASHINGTON—U.S. Senator Thad Cochran urged a group of Mississippi high school students to "play an active, personal role in the political process of your home state and local communities."

Cochran told the Mississippi students that "you are the future leaders of our state and there is no better time than right now, this year, to start taking a leadership role in the affairs of our state and nation."

He pointed out that 1988 is a national election year, with Presidential, Senatorial and Congressional races on the ballot in Mississippi. "These are important offices, and those of you old enough ought to be registered and participating in the process. Those of you not yet 18 can encourage your parents, friends and relatives to be sure and vote in these elections."

The senator, a member of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, also stressed that education has a high priority on his legislative agenda.

"Last year, we passed an extension of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. This is a major piece of legislation providing federal assistance for a number of important education programs in Mississippi," he told the group.

He also stated that he is co-sponsoring a comprehensive welfare reform bill aimed at providing improved job training and education to help persons break out of the welfare cycle.

Cochran noted that the Appropriations subcommittee on Agriculture and Rural Development, of which he is the ranking member, provides the funding for nutrition programs such as the school lunch program.

The students, about 160 in number, were in Washington for a program sponsored by the Close-Up Foundation, to help high school students learn about the national government.

The organization said the group here this week included students from 15 Mississippi schools, including North Panola, Oak Grove, Petal, Rosa Fort, Forrest County, AHS, Warren Central, Vidalia, Meridian, Pearl, Jackson, Wiggins, Southaven, East Central, Madison, Ridgeland, Jackson Academy and Forest Hill high schools.

HNC student wins first place

Russel Lee of Kiln has earned a leadership award in a competition sponsored by the University of Southern Mississippi Center for Gifted Studies.

Slated to become an annual event, the first Leadership Competitions and Reunion at USM brought together past participants of the annual Leadership Studies Program to compete for awards for extemporaneous speeches and essays about leadership and for implementing leadership plans the students developed during the past summer's program.

Lee is a tenth grade TAG student student in Mrs. Lois Abram's class at Hancock North Central.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Lee of Kiln.

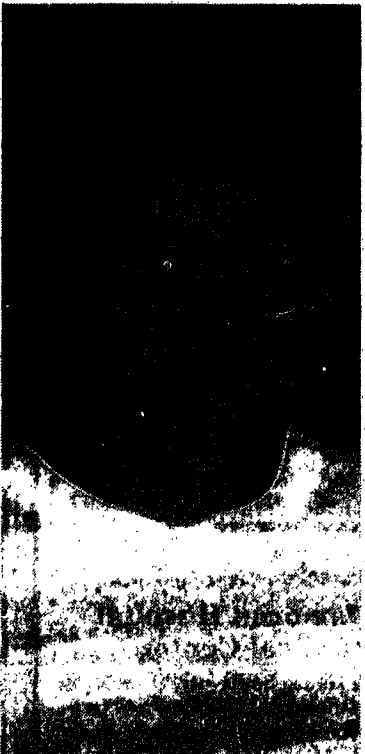

Lee originally attended the Leadership Camp at USM, Hattiesburg during the summer of 1987.

All students who attended this program met again in March to compete in a leadership project.

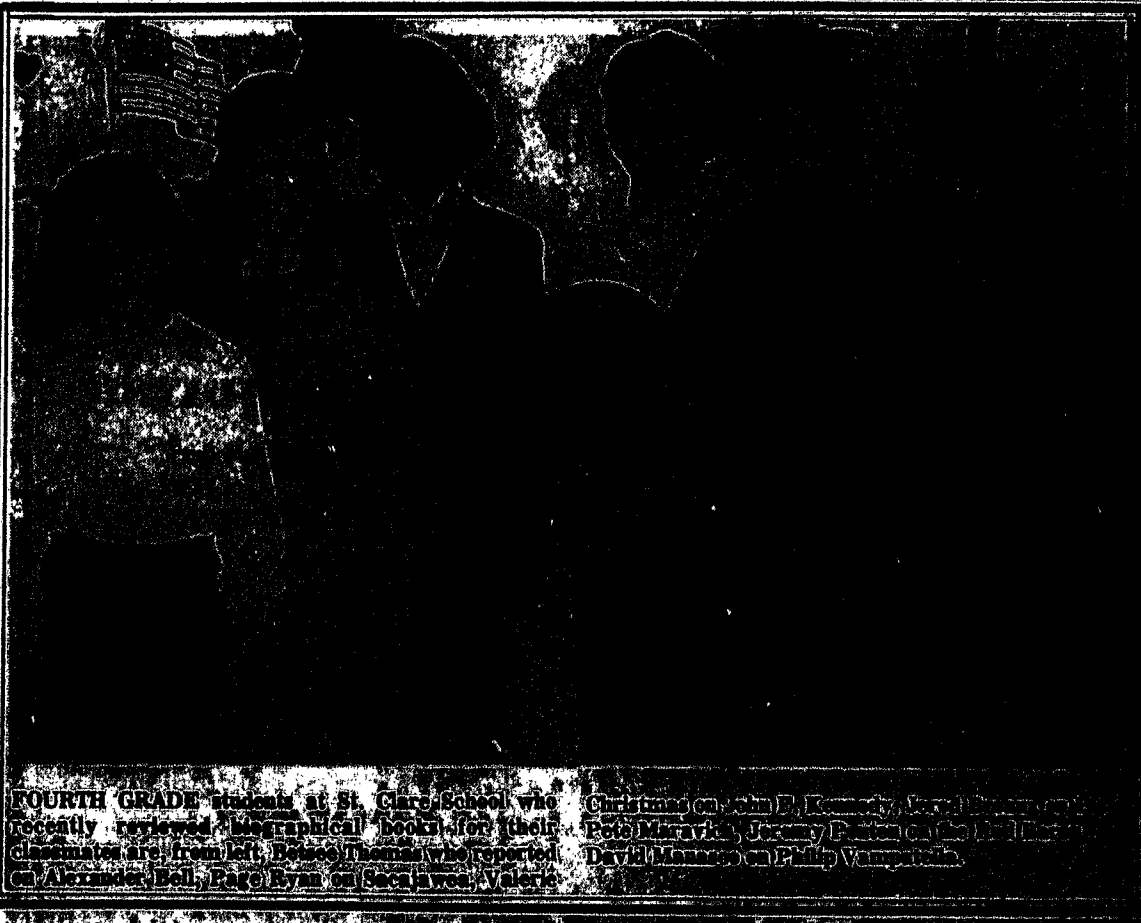

The project was an essay, an extemporaneous speech, or a presentation of a plan for leadership.

Lee's first place winning essay was entitled "Leadership Needed for a Change in Society."

Chad LaFontaine named 1988 Star Student

Bay Senior High's Star Student this year is Chad LaFontaine. He was selected Mr. Jon Blanchette as his Star Teacher. The purpose of the Star Student award is to put emphasis on academic excellence and encourage greater effort among Mississippi students. The purpose of the teacher award is to recognize excellence in the teaching profession.

Chad LaFontaine is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald LaFontaine. Before entering the Bay St. Louis School System in 1982, he attended St. Paul's Elementary School.

In his freshman and sophomore years, Chad was a member of the Alpha Honor Roll. He was also a member of the football and baseball teams.

As a junior, Chad was inducted into the National Honor Society and for a third consecutive year was a member of the football and baseball teams.

This year, this Star Student was selected as Mr. Bay High, Most Dependable and Most Likely to Succeed. He was quarterback of the football team and was chosen All Conference player. He was again a member of the baseball team. Upon graduation, Chad plans to major in engineering. He has not chosen a college as yet.

Asked why he chose Mr. Blanchette as Star Teacher, Chad commented, "I chose Mr. Blanchette because when I was in his class, he made the class challenging, yet at the same time enjoyable."

This year's Star Teacher is a resident of Bay St. Louis. He received a BS degree in science from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Mr. Blanchette is the father of two children, DeShea, a junior at Bay Senior High and Jason, a sixth grader at St. Clare. He is married to the former Mary Anne Carlisle of Heidelberg, Miss.

He began his teaching career in 1965 at Bay Junior High School where he taught general science. He has been a teacher for 23 years and is presently co-chairman of the science department and teacher of biology (9-12).

When asked about his initial response to being chosen as Star Teacher, he responded, "It is an honor to be nominated for Star Teacher by such a fine person as Chad, and it is indeed a pleasure."

Mr. Blanchette was asked to describe the Star Student.

"Use every adjective to describe the best student," he said with a chuckle. "Truthfully, he is a credit to his school, parents and community. We should all be proud of him."

USM broadcast producer wins recognition

SLIDELL—A broadcast producer for the University of Southern Mississippi's Public Relations Department has won professional recognition for his video work.

Steve Rouse, 27, a native of Slidell and graduate of USM's television program, won an Excellence in the television category of 1987 Communication Awards Competition sponsored by District III of the National Association for the Advancement of Education (CASE).

The district competition annually receives entries by college and university advancement staffs in Mississippi, Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee. The winning entries will be featured during a district conference in Atlanta Feb. 14-17.

Rouse spent three weeks in London last July video-taping highlights of the annual British Studies Program and interviewing students and faculty against a backdrop of familiar British scenes such as Buckingham Palace, Big Ben, Westminster Abbey, Bobbies, cabs and double-decker buses.

Upon his return to the USM campus, he edited the taped footage and interviews into a series of 90-second, broadcast-ready video news releases for broadcast at major television markets across the state and selected spots outside Mississippi.

Rouse also did the voice-over for the VNRs, which were localized to each TV market area whenever possible by inserting interviews with hometown students who participated in the foreign studies program. Each tape also included an interview with Dr. Tim Hudson, a USM associate professor of geography and area development who directed the program and now serves as director of USM's Center for International Education.

"Steve's recognition by his professional peers across the Southeast for his work on the British Studies Program simply mirrors the talent, creativity, dedication and technical skill he displayed throughout the year as USM public relations accelerated its effort to gain more television visibility for university people and programs through the production of some 38 VNRs," said Phil Hearn, assistant public relations director for USM news services.

O'Brien candidate named

Emily Flemings, daughter of Mrs. Ghun Flemings, has been selected as the 1988 Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation candidate from Pass Christian High School.

She will attend the Mississippi Youth Leadership Seminar in Jackson.

The purpose of the Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation is to seek out, recognize, and reward leadership potential in high school sophomores. The program brings a select group of high school sophomores with leadership qualities together with a group of distinguished leaders in business, science, education, government, and the professions, and let the two interact.

Annual Leadership Seminars at the state and international levels take the form of intense but informal discussions aimed at giving the young student a straight forward view of what the world is all about.

While at Pass Christian High School Flemings has been a member of the Student Council and Science Club where she is a captain. She is also a cheerleader and is consistently on the Superintendent's Honor Roll.

Union seeks legislative relief from teacher paperwork

Although a paperwork reduction bill was passed by the Mississippi Legislature last year nothing much has been getting done, according to the Mississippi American Federation of Teachers.

"We need some teeth put into that law and that's exactly what we're pushing to get done," said Maryann Graczyk, president of the 3,500 member union. "The paperwork is robbing teachers of their time and students of learning."

Graczyk said Graczyk. While some of the bills have tests with the State Department of Education, a great deal of the work is caused by the local school districts, according to Graczyk.

School Districts are not making an effort to research and reduce the problem so our only alternative is to force them to deal with the problem," she said. The force will come, MAFT hopes, in the form of legislation which amends last year's bill to include specific directions for resolving paperwork problems.

Amendments call for the establishment in every school district of a paperwork reduction committee composed of teachers and administrators, mechanisms for eliminating related paperwork, and freedom for teachers to prepare for classroom instruction that will make the school districts act," said Graczyk.

Those teeth include monitoring by the State Department of Education which will have to secure evidence of continuing efforts to reduce the paperwork responsibilities of teachers and the holding back of state funds from any school district that does not comply by deadline dates until compliance is met.

"As long as the paperwork problem continues, the people of Mississippi are not getting the best return on their tax investment in teacher salaries," said Graczyk.

Students sought to pursue Ag careers

There is more to agriculture than just plows and cows when it comes to career opportunities.

This will be the message aimed at some of Mississippi's top high school Juniors and Seniors at the 6th annual Institute for Future Agricultural Leaders (IFAL).

The week-long career orientation program, co-sponsored by Mississippi State University's College of Agriculture and The Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, will be held on the MSU campus, July 10-15, 1988. Hugh Arant, president of the federation, has encouraged county Farm Bureaus across the state to support the 1988 session of IFAL by surfacing students to attend.

Arant said, "Our industry needs to attract some of the best minds possible if agriculture is to move with the rest of the world into the high-tech 21st century. IFAL is an excellent opportunity to showcase the many career opportunities in agriculture to some of our state's most outstanding students."

Joining Arant in promoting IFAL, Dr. Charles Lindley, dean of the College of Agriculture, said, "We are looking for young men and women ranking in the top 25 percent of their classes, as they prepare to enter their Junior or Senior years. This will give them time to consider what direction in which they will move once graduating from high school. We feel that if exposed to career choices not usually associated with agriculture they could find something of possible interest."

IFAL brings students together with some of the state's and nation's most outstanding educators and agribusiness people in discussions and demonstrations that explain career choices and how they might relate to student's career goals. After an overview of a wide variety of careers, each student is given an opportunity to take part in some hands-on activities in the area that has attracted their interest.

Highlighting the week's program will be the awarding of two scholarships to the students selected as most outstanding. The scholarships, in the amounts of $1,000 and $500, are provided by the College of Agriculture's Alumni organization.

The cost of sponsoring a student to IFAL is $175. This fee is usually paid by the sponsoring county Farm Bureau, or by a local sponsor within the agribusiness community.

Anyone interested in attending IFAL or in sponsoring a student to IFAL should contact their local Farm Bureau office for information. Registration forms for students are due at Mississippi State by May 2.

Math program funded at Delisle Elementary

The Delisle Elementary School has been awarded $1,002 by the Mississippi Power Foundation, Inc. to implement an innovative math program for students.

The Math Manipulatives method of instruction raises math competency in students by basing learning of abstract concepts on the understanding of familiar items such as blocks, geometric shapes and play money.

The Math manipulatives program will also include workshops for parents to become more involved in math instruction and inservice training sessions for teachers.

"Studies have shown that getting students actively involved in the learning process affects their achievement more than anything else," program coordinator Constance Wood said.

The grant will help purchase materials, supplies and instructional literature for the program.

The Mississippi Power Foundation, Inc. is a nonprofit organization formed by Mississippi Power Company to fund programs designed to improve education in the state.

UNO to create eminent scholar chair in ocean and space research

Plans are underway to create an Eminent Scholar Endowed Chair in Ocean and Space Research and Technology at the University of New Orleans in honor of the late Edward

G. Schlieder, a local pioneer in business and educational philanthropy. UNO Chancellor Gregory M. St. L. O'Brien said the endowed chair will be funded primarily by a $600,000 grant to UNO to be matched by $400,000 from the Louisiana Endowment Trust Fund for Eminent Scholars.

O'Brien said. Interest from the endowment will be used to pay the salary and other academic expenses needed to attract a top-notch professor in the applied physics and engineering science specialties in ocean and space research.

"Once created, this endowed chair will assist greatly the University of New Orleans in its efforts to support the economic and social development of the Greater New Orleans area by positioning this region as a locus for research in ocean and space science and technology," he said.

"The Edward G. Schlieder Eminent Scholar Endowed Chair in Ocean and Space Research and Technology will attract to UNO a world renowned scholar in the applied sciences who will be instrumental in not only furthering the university's research and training expertise but in building this region's scientific and economic competitiveness as well."

Noting that the New Orleans area is currently the location of more than 25 major federal research and development installations, O'Brien said that these facilities are already actively seeking UNO's involvement in advanced education, training and contractual research.

"The Schlieder endowed chair, in combination with UNO's existing excellence in teaching, research and public service, will be an impressive magnet in attracting other technically oriented companies and governmental agencies to invest in their future while greatly contributing to the economic well being of this area."

Carnival promises fun for all

The Hancock North Central Student Council is sponsoring a Spring Carnival at the school Apr. 30.

One of the features of this carnival is a volleyball tournament to be held in the gym.

Leslie Ladner, Dotsie Nussbaum and Coach Larry Johnson are coordinating this tournament. So far we have six entries. Other entries will be accepted through the school office. Phone 255-7191.

Barry Wicktom is in charge of the children's games. He has planned a wide variety of fun, games and contests including quarter toss, fish pond, pop gun, frogger, dart throw and others. He has also chosen numerous prizes for these games.

Whichdini, a famous magician will present two shows during the day, one at noon and one at three p.m.

Other exciting features include a dunking booth with Keith Ladner and Sherwin Ladner in charge of drafting faculty members and other prominent members of the community to be dunked.

There will also be a wide variety of food, drinks and other enjoyable activities.

Profits will be donated to the Rebekah Kennedy Scholarship fund. Mrs. Kennedy was the counselor at Hancock for 25 years and was interested in encouraging students to attend college. This scholarship fund awards a scholarship each year to a Hancock North Central senior.

Evangeline wins zoo competition

The New Orleans Cajun country group Evangeline won the 1988 Jazz Search Concert Competition Sunday at Audubon Zoo. Over 100 groups competed in the program created by the Audubon Zoo to find new local music talent.

For winning, Evangeline will perform April 29 at the New Orleans Jazz And Heritage Festival, which is one of the sponsors of Jazz Search '88.

The group also received electronic equipment and recording time in Southlake Studios for their victory.

Members of the group are Kathleen Stieffel of Bay St. Louis; Rhonda Bolin, Jan Polopolus and Sharon Leger of New Orleans.

Evangeline was organized a little over two months ago and has met with success from the start in and around the New Orleans area.

Their first tape is in production and should be on the market by next month.

Pet story contest slated

The Hancock County Humane Society will join in the celebration of National Library Week by sponsoring a pet story contest for children on the grounds of the Waveland Public Library, Saturday, Apr. 23, 11 a.m. to noon.

According to Mrs. Neil McKinney, coordinator of the special event, contestants will explain why "I Love My Pet Because..." or "My Favorite Pet Story Is..."

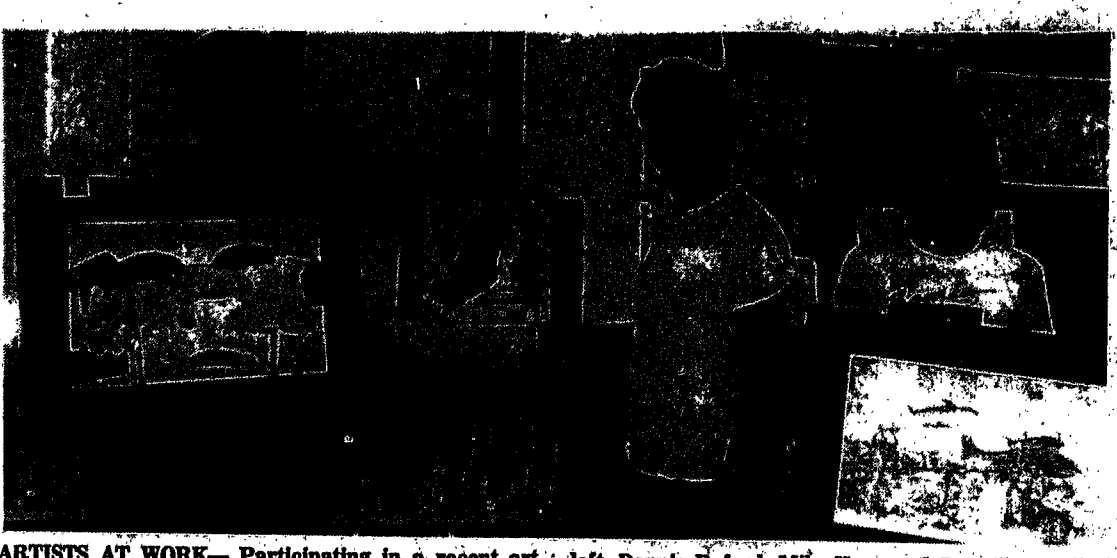

All entrants will receive a ribbon.

Admission will be a can, bag, or box of kitten or puppy food for the animal shelter.

"We think bringing children and their pets together is an excellent way to end a week of National Library Week activities that have been held at all three public libraries in the county," said McKinney.

"At the same time it is an opportunity to make children and their parents aware of Humane Society activities and the needs of the animal shelter."

For more information, contact the Waveland Library at 467-9240.

ARTISTS AT WORK—Participating in a recent art competition sponsored by the Coast Episcopal Schools 'Toast To The Coast' fund-raising program are, from left, Donnie Buford, Mike Kane and Joey Stone, all of Bay Junior High.

St. Ann Church News

By VIRGINIA THOMAS
A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Lambert Stack, ST.
"The angels said to her: Mary, do not be afraid; you have won God's favor. Listen! You are to conceive and bear a son, and you must call him Jesus. He will be great and will be called Son of the Most High."

Luke 1:30-31
Members of St. Ann-St. John Altar Society will meet 11 a.m. Wednesday, April 27 in the parish hall for their regular monthly meeting.

Immediately following in the parish hall at noon will be the monthly luncheon sponsored by the ladies of the Altar Society. According to Virginia Thomas, chairlady, she and her co-hostess, JoAnn Smith, will be serving a delicious appetizer, garlic bread and salad. Donations are invited.

Everyone is invited. Father Stack has announced this being the Marian Year. It is most appropriate that the children receive their First Holy Communion and that the Mary Crown of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Queen of the World, be crowned on May 8 at St. Ann Church during the 9:30 a.m. Mass.

Local students volunteer for college task force

HATTIESBURG—William Carey College President J. Ralph Noonkester has appointed three major task forces this spring. Faculty, staff, and students have volunteered to work with the task force of their choice.

Campus groups are making recommendations and/or working in the areas of student recruitment, student life, and campus clean up/fix up. Students who have signed up to work with both the Student Life Task Force and the Clean Up/Fix Up Task Force include sisters Kristin and Sandy Reynolds of Pearlinton. Kristin is a freshman and Sandy is a junior at Carey.

The Student Life group is making recommendations on facilities and activities to improve the quality of life for students living on campus. The clean up/fix up group has already sponsored a campus-wide work day to spruce up the campus prior to a recent Prospective Student Day.

Additional work will be done prior to Honors Day on Apr. 26 and Graduation on May 7.

A Man's Gotta Do What A Man's Gotta Do

All young men have one responsibility in common. They have to register with Selective Service within 30 days of their 18th birthday. It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

PRC alumni plan cruise

Pearl River Community College alumni and friends are invited to join the PRC Alumni Association on a seven day summer cruise.

The group will set sail from Miami on July 17 for seven days aboard a Carnival Cruise Lines "Fun Ship". Ports of call will include Nassau, San Juan and St. Thomas.

The vacation will include round trip airfare from most major cities and seven nights of accommodations in the category of choice. There are several options, including paying for the vacation in three installments.

"The cruise is being sponsored by the Pearl River Alumni Association," said Donna Wilson, alumni director, "but faculty, staff, and friends of the college are invited to participate."

For more information call Donna Wilson at 601-795-6801. This is the first group vacation ever planned for the PRC alumni and friends.

The Other White Meat

Herbed Pork Chops
 1 lb. pork chops, about 1 1/2 inch thick
 1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
 2 cup dry cherry
 2 tablespoon brown sugar
 1/2 teaspoon dried rosemary leaves, crushed
 1 clove garlic, minced
 Combine all ingredients except pork chops in a bowl. Place chops in a shallow dish, pour marinade over chops. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Turn the meat occasionally.
 Remove pork chops from marinade. Cook 4-6 minutes on each side, turning and basting once with marinade. Makes 4 servings.

1988 SPRING FISHING AND BOATING SPECTACULAR

Some portable generators have features like AC/DC capability which allows you to run AC power tools and charge a DC battery at the same time.

Portable Generators Put Electrical Power Where It's Never Been Before

We truly live in a world powered by electricity. Your toaster and coffee maker in the morning . . . your electric shaver . . . your television, stereo, personal computer and VCR player . . . your washing machine, refrigerator and work shop tools not to mention air compressors, circular saws and arc welders all rely on a constant supply of electrical current to operate.

But in spite of this technology, unless a source of electricity is close at hand these convenience items are totally useless.

That's where a portable generator can make all the difference. These modern day electricity makers are amazingly powerful, easy to use and still very portable.

According to Suzuki America Corporation, one of the world's leading manufacturers of portable generators, "The continued growth in outdoor recreational activities has triggered a significant increase in demand for portable generator products. What with the popularity of camping, boating and hiking all on the rise, people are pursuing these interests in greater numbers but they also want to have their comfort and conveniences with them.

"It's now quite common to see a mountain campsite with a portable color television, an automatic coffee maker and an electric fry pan in use. And without a portable generator to power them, there's no sense in bringing them along."

One additional factor which has contributed to the recent increase in portable generator popularity is ease of operation. Today's portable generator requires only a minimum amount of familiarity in order to use it.

Japan has, on average, three earthquakes a day.

How to Select the Right Size Outboard For Your Boat

One of the more perplexing questions facing a prospective new boat buyer is, "what size outboard engine is best for my hull?"

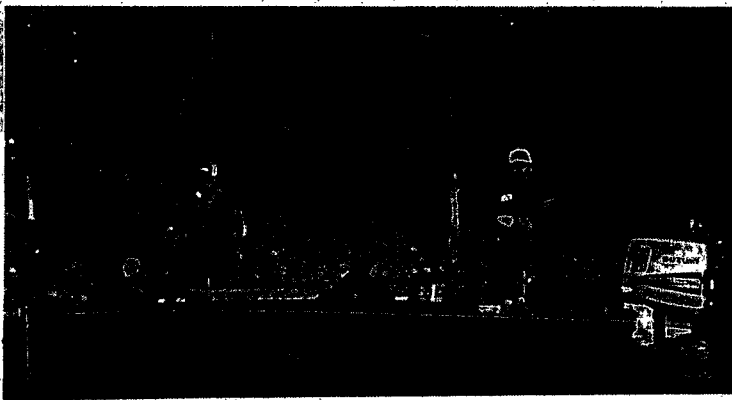

According to Suzuki Outboards, buyers should always first check to see if the hull has a Coast Guard rated maximum horsepower certificate affixed to the interior. This rating tag is required on all outboard hulls under 20 feet.

The maximum horsepower number which appears on the certificate is arrived at through a specific mathematical formula which takes into consideration a combination of hull dimensions and design characteristics. This maximum horsepower figure does not mean that it is necessarily the most ideal horsepower for the boat, but rather indicates the absolute top limit of power for safe operation.

Generally, most hulls will perform quite well with less than a maximum rating. A good way of determining exactly which size outboard engine is best is to consult with a qualified marine dealer in your area. Explain to the dealer how and where your boat will be used and he will be able to offer helpful recommendations on the correct size of engine.

Remember, never exceed the rated maximum horsepower limit of any hull. Appropriately powering your boat is the first rule of boating safety.

Most hulls will perform quite well with less than a maximum rated outboard. To determine the proper outboard size consult a qualified marine dealer in your area, telling him how and where your boat will be used.

Sea creatures living at depths below 3,000 feet have been found to be blind or to possess their own phosphorescent lighting system.

Keep This Checklist Handy For Camping

Here is a list of frequently used camping gear. This is a good basic start, but your own personal needs will largely influence your equipment selection. The available space in your vehicle should also be a factor in your preparation, adds The Coleman Company.

- ☐ Air Mattress
- ☐ Batteries
- ☐ Blankets
- ☐ Camera and film
- ☐ Radiant heater (in cold weather)
- ☐ Coffee Pot
- ☐ Compass

How to catch your fish and eat it too!

By MARK THOMAS

In every facet of life, there is always some "dirty work." Some of us are fortunate enough to leave these tasks to someone else, but that is not always the case.

In fishing, the dirty work comes after the catch is on board, but before you can taste—quite literally—the fruits of your labor. Anglers the world over agree that filleting fish is not one of their favorite pastimes, but it sure beats pulling scales and bones from their teeth at the dinner table.

The first step in fish cleaning and filleting is to obtain a sharp knife. A sharp knife is critical in cleaning fish to ensure that meat is not wasted, and is left in an edible condition.

Most professionals will tell you that the blade should be thin, narrow, flexible and very sharp. In fact, quite a few folks keep a sharpener handy to hone the knife's edge between fish, if they have a large catch to fillet.

There is no clear cut preference to type of blade. Many people prefer blades of carbon steel because they hold an edge better than stainless steel, but either will do for occasional filleting.

Once a tool has been selected, start by laying the fish on its side on a cutting board. There are some plastic cleaning boards on the market, but even a piece of wood will do.

Next, slice gently through the flesh just behind the gill plates or just in front of the tail. By starting just behind the gill plates, the less tasty belly meat on most fish can be eliminated.

Slide until the blade barely touches the backbone, but don't cut into or through the main vertebrae. Turn the blade gently so that it lies parallel to the spine with the cutting edge facing the direction in which you want to cut.

Remember, it's a good idea always to cut away from yourself. Hand protection is always critical, because blades can get caught on meat or bones and snap back, causing accidental lacerations.

Your best bet is to wear hand protection such as Du Pont's "Sports Guard" gloves, which are made from "Kevlar" fibers that are seven times more slash-resistant than cotton.

Next, slowly and steadily work the blade along the spine, separating the meat from the bone. Then turn the fish on its other side and repeat the procedure. Now, there should be two long sections of meat and, if the job was done properly, they will be completely boneless.

To remove skin, if that is your choice, place the skin side of the fillet down on the cutting board. Use the knife to work just enough flesh away from the skin so you can get a grip on the fillet.

Place the knife blade flat against the skin. Run the blade forward as the skin is pulled, with more emphasis on pulling than cutting. The skin should come away cleanly. Filleting sounds terribly easy and it should be, but it takes practice and patience, just like fishing.

Mark Thomas is a free-lance writer whose stories have been published in several weekly papers and Western magazines.

PROPER FILLETING results from practice, practice, practice. Take a tip from the experts. Knowing how to fillet your fish will mean a tastier portion at the dinner table. Always use proper hand protection to protect against accidental lacerations. Famous fisherman Bill Dance recommends Du Pont's "Sports Guard" gloves which are made of "Kevlar", a fiber which, pound for pound, is five times stronger than steel.

BETTER CASTING MEANS MORE FISH—Just like any other sport, fishing requires the proper technique in order to achieve optimum results. Women who adjust their casting techniques to specific fishing conditions can out-catch their male counterparts, even in the back of the boat!

How to select an airgun for a youngster

For a youngster growing up in America, a few firsts in his or her life always stand out when looking back over those earlier years. Remember your first bicycle? Your first car?

For the millions of Americans who enjoy shooting, hunting and fishing, a wave of nostalgia accompanies memories of their first real gun.

In most cases, that gun was an airgun (BB gun, that is). And the tradition continues, as each year thousands of youths reach the age and maturity that their parents feel entitles them to the privilege of owning their first guns.

However, with so many varieties of airguns on the market, the selection process can be difficult for someone who's not sure what to look for in an airgun for a young boy or girl.

The following advice about the safest and most enjoyable airguns for your youngster was supplied by Daisy Manufacturing Company, a widely-recognized leader in teaching America's youth the fundamentals of shooting safety.

First of all, a smaller shooter needs a smaller gun. Three factors determine a correct gun size: The reach to the trigger, forearm reach and sighting ease.

Adult-sized gun stocks are too big for little people. Test the reach to trigger by placing the butt of the stock in the bend inside the intended user's elbow. The first section of the trigger finger should be able to reach the trigger comfortably.

Now, can the shooter reach the forearm to support the gun properly in a shooting position? Finally, the shooter should be able to place his or her cheek in a comfortable position against the stock and see through the rear sight.

In addition to fitting the size of an airgun to the size of the shooter, the gun's velocity capabilities are also an important consideration. The determination by the experts is that no airgun that shoots at a muzzle velocity of over 350 feet per second (fps) should be sold to or bought for anyone under the age of 14.

What experts recommend these guidelines? They are set forth by a non-profit organization called the American Society of Testing and Materials (ASTM), which is devoted to the development of industry standards.

A committee of ASTM, made up of non-powder gun manufacturers, suppliers, consumers and a representative from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, has established certain safety standards.

ASTM specifications separate airguns into various categories based on muzzle velocity, as measured in feet per second. Airguns that shoot pellets or BBs at a maximum of less than 350 fps are designated by ASTM for use by shooters age eight and older.

Daisy classifies its airguns in this category as Youth Line airguns, and specifies their use for shooters age 10 and older with adult supervision.

ASTM has designated airguns that shoot at velocities of 350 fps and higher for use by shooters age 14 and older. Daisy's line of more powerful airguns that falls into this category is known as Power Line® airguns; these are age-graded for shooters age 16 and older.

To keep things simple, the best way to know you're buying the right airgun for your youngster is to check the age-grading labels on the packaging. All brands carry these labels, and they should be taken quite seriously.

Many hours of shooting pleasure await the lucky youngsters who will receive their first guns this year. Putting safety first will ensure that the memories produced by that prized possession will all be happy ones.

YOUNGSTERS who, with the help of their parents, are just getting started learning how to shoot well and handle guns safely are fortunate to have a selection of airguns tailored to fit their needs in terms of both gun size and shooting velocity. Parents should take care to check user age recommendations on airgun packaging before buying an airgun for a young person.

Recreational shooting: A lifetime sport

By DAVID H. LEWIS

"I was a pretty good quarterback when I played football in college," my grandfather said to me recently as he lined up the sights of an air rifle on a target 30 feet away in his back yard.

"Back in those days everybody on the team played offense and defense both, you know," Grandpa recalled.

He stopped talking long enough to gently squeeze the trigger. A quiet "ffff" sound was immediately followed by the clank of a lead pellet impacting the side of a soft drink can that toppled from its post. Grandpa had obviously done this before. He loaded another .177-caliber pellet.

"Don't know if I can still throw a football 60 yards," he said, "but I can shoot this airgun even better than I could shoot when I used to go hunting with my daddy every fall."

My grandfather grew up in a small rural town—still lives there; in fact—and while growing up he learned to love the outdoors and participated in all the outdoor recreation he could find time for.

He has enjoyed fishing for all of his 82 years, but only recently re-discovered his love for the shooting sports.

Having cut his teeth on a Daisy BB gun when he was a kid, pleasant memories came flooding back when he wandered into the airgun section of his favorite sporting goods store a few weeks ago.

Just as if time had stood still, there on the rack was a Daisy Red Ryder just like the one he'd bought my dad many years before. But then there were several other airguns he didn't recognize right off.

Most of the BB guns, he noticed, had been age-graded by their manufacturers for shooters age 10 and older with adult supervision.

Then there was another line of airguns that appeared to Grandpa to be bigger and more powerful than any he had seen in his youth. These guns, Power Line, they called them, were recommended for shooters age 16 and older.

Grandpa figured he was over 16, so he picked up a new Daisy Power Line 900, a single-pump pneumatic air rifle with a five-shot repeating clip that shoots pellets at over 500 feet per second.

For several weeks now, my grandfather has been practicing his marksmanship with his airgun in his backyard and, when it's raining, in his basement. He and a neighbor friend take trips out to the country now and then to enjoy the scenery and shoot their airguns.

"If you can learn to shoot one of these well," Grandpa told me, "then you can shoot any gun—airgun or firearm—well because the shooting skills you need to know are the same for both."

My grandfather has always been difficult to find gifts for, but Christmas shopping for him just got a little easier. I've already decided to buy him a Daisy Point Sight for his airgun, along with some other airgun gadgets and a few boxes of pellets I found at the sporting goods store.

I'm even thinking about springing for a new air pistol that I suspect he'll enjoy just as much as his air rifle. He's worth it, and more.

UNLIKE MANY OUTDOOR SPORTING ACTIVITIES, rifle and pistol shooting are pastimes that anyone can practice and enjoy from an early age on through one's later years. This duo of retirees finds that a tailgate session of airgun shooting in the country is a very enjoyable way to spend a sunny afternoon.

TOWING A TRAILER can take a considerable toll on the towing vehicle. Before hooking up, suggests Dave Clark, national manager, Technical Services, for Pennzoil Products Company, be sure to give the towing vehicle a complete checkup.

The joy of fishing is a real pleasure to pass on to the younger generation

By MARK THOMAS

Can you remember your first fish? Most people can, and a good feeling comes over them when they reflect on that first fishing experience. Usually, it was with a close family member, such as a mother or father, and it brought the parent and child closer together.

When you teach and share the joys of fishing with your youngsters, you're giving them something that will stay with them for the rest of their lives. With a little luck and some careful planning, that first fishing experience will be remembered by the child and the parent.

The folks at Du Pont, makers of "Stren" and "Prime Plus" fishing lines, suggest a few tips for a successful fishing trip.

The most important item is to do everything possible to ensure the youngsters will catch fish. Nothing is more disheartening than to fish all day without a keeper.

Find a location that should be loaded with crappie, bluegill or sunfish. Most kids have a short attention span so, the more fish they catch, the more they will want to go on a second trip. In short, they will be hooked for life.

Try to use basic equipment. Asking children to whip buzzbaits or jig worms will only frustrate them. A spincasting rig or even a cane pole is ideal, because they are virtually trouble free and kids will spend more time fishing than pulling out backlashes.

Young minds are eager to take in new information, but concentrate on the basics instead of flooding them with techniques and "fishing jargon." By learning the basics of the sport, young anglers will retain more knowledge and become better fishermen.

Above all, patience is the key to a fun trip. Teach your children how to bait the hook and how to cast if their equipment warrants that, then sit back and let them have the fun.

Fishing can be a wonderful experience for youngsters. The experience will hold even more enjoyment for the adult who is willing to take the time and effort to teach them.

Tim's Auto Tips

*Always rest your car for about one hour after each couple of hours of continual break-in driving.

*Occasional full-throttle accelerations while the car is moving can be beneficial to the break-in process, but quick accelerations from a full stop should never be attempted.

*Never drive for long periods of time at one constant speed. Vary your speed up and down, never staying at one speed for more than a few minutes. To help this practice, ease up completely on the accelerator every so often, and let the car slow down a bit. This creates more engine vacuum, which will assist in getting more oil into the upper cylinder area where it is needed.

ONE WAY to distinguish an "old salt" from a "landlubber" is to listen to a boater's use of nautical terms. Mercury Outboards designed this illustration to help boaters and fishermen learn the language of boating.

Age-old origins of modern boating terms

If you're told there is a painter aboard your boat, don't start looking for someone with a brush and can. In boating parlance, a painter is a rope that is used to secure or tow a boat.

And, if you really want to get technical, there are no ropes aboard boats; they're called lines, halyards and hawsers, depending upon the size and use.

The language of boating is fascinating, especially when you learn the reasons behind the terminology. Many of the origins of words we use in boating today are traceable to ancient cultures.

Consider, for example, the commonly-used terms "port" and "starboard." Mercury Outboards' boating authorities researched these two important contemporary boating words, and learned that the reasons for them can be traced to the Nile River nearly 5,000 years ago.

The earliest known picture of a sailing craft is on an Egyptian vase dating from 3,200 B.C. It shows a papyrus boat with a steering oar located on the right side at the stern.

Today, we call the right side of a boat the starboard side, a word that comes down to us from Old English, meaning "steering board."

As boating developed and spread throughout the Old World, it became conventional to position the steering board (or oar) on the right side of the boat. And that led to the creation of a word which designated the other side, which we call the port side.

Again, a word derived from the Old English, "port" simply means the side of the ship which would be brought next to the quay (or dock) when in port.

It was important to put that side next to shore; the steersman would be able to operate his oar without interference, and thus the port side was less fragile than the steering board side.

For modern boaters, of course, port and starboard have different meanings, being associated mostly with navigation, and to distinguish one side of a boat from the other.

How to handle bad weather

Getting caught "in a blow" might have been an exhilarating experience in the movies of a generation ago, but it's not much fun in real life.

Today's pleasure boats can handle surprisingly heavy weather safely, but it's the discomfiture that you don't need. Avoid being out in a boat during a storm, if at all possible.

The best way to do that is to stay tuned to a U.S. Weather Service or commercial radio station for forecasts. In the event that the forecast is "iffy," stay home or boat close to shore so you can get to shelter quickly.

This seems like obvious advice, but every summer the Coast Guard has to rescue boaters during storms that were expected and forecast, according to the Mariner Outboards boating authorities.

In addition to getting forecasts, a prudent boat skipper keeps his "weather eye peeled." The disadvantage a boater has—there's no shelter in open water—is offset by his visibility advantage.

Because there are no visual obstructions when he's in open water, he can see the cloud formations on the horizon which warn of bad weather.

Watch the western horizon, the direction from which most of our weather comes. When a cloud begins to thicken and grow vertically, there's a chance of a shower.

If it continues to grow darker and spread, you may be watching the development of a thunderstorm. (Sometimes the taller clouds have anvil-shaped tops; that's a sign of dangerous thunderstorms.) Head for shore without delay.

If you boat a lot, you'll probably get caught in rough water at some time or other. When it happens to you, slow down. Accept your fate and resign yourself to getting back, slowly but safely.

Get everyone aboard into a life jacket or vest. Although designed to keep a person afloat in the water, a vest will also protect the wearer from bruises during the bumpy ride.

Boating PFDs Save Lives . . . If They Are Worn

Like the seat belts in your car, the PFD (Personal Flotation Device) is the most important safety gear aboard your boat.

And just like seat belts, PFDs save lives . . . if they are worn!

Since the federal PFD regulation went into effect in 1973 it is now mandatory that at least one U.S. Coast Guard approved PFD be on board for each person.

But recent Coast Guard statistics reveal that over 80 percent of all people who die in boating accidents drown. And sadly most of them were not wearing a PFD.

One major problem is getting people in the habit of wearing the PFD during the time they are on board the boat. Excuses range from PFDs being too confining, not stylish and uncomfortable.

Many times the PFD doesn't fit the activity of the water sport the wearer is involved in.

But manufacturers like The Coleman Company have helped make the wearing of the PFDs more "second nature" like wearing seat belts in cars has become. Through research and design PFDs are now made for all water sport applications including fishing, canoeing, water skiing and boating.

For example, Coleman has made their canoe vests lightweight and designed with large armholes for freedom of movement while paddling. Their popular new fishing vests, which come in tan, green, brown and camouflage, has mesh in the shoulders and back for comfort and mobility.

They also make a 100 mph impact vest popular with bass fishermen that run at high speeds on large lakes.

Water ski vests come in a variety of colors for both the recreational or tournament skier to be secure in.

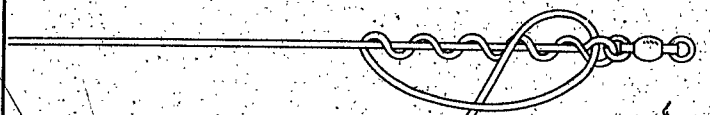

The range of sizes is also wide from childrens vests in infant (19-30 lbs.), child (30-50 lbs.) and youth (50-90 lbs.) to adult sizes of universal fits all, or small/medium, large/X-large and an XXX-large in many applications.

Above all, safety is the main emphasis in the Coleman designs. And it's been a proven lifesaver . . . when the PFD is worn.

Knots to Hold Terminal Tackle

Improved Clinch Knot

This is a good knot for making terminal-tackle connections and is best used for lines up to 20-pound test. It is a preferred knot by professional fishermen and angling authorities.

1. Pass line through eye of hook, swivel, or lure. Double back and make five turns around the standing line. Hold coils in place; thread end of line around first loop above the eye, then through big loop as shown.

2. Hold tag end and standing line while coils are pulled up. Take care that coils are in spiral, not lapping over each other. Slide tight against eye. Clip tag end.

Outboard Engine Maintenance Tips For The 'Do-It-Yourselfer'

Today's modern outboard engine is a far cry from the old 'rope-pull', clamp-it-to-the-transom' putt-putt that grandad used to own.

Now, it's common for many current model outboards to come standard equipped with features like automatic oil injection, power trim and tilt, I.C. ignition systems, and thru-prop exhaust. And because of these rather sophisticated technological improvements, some outboard owners are apprehensive about tackling even the most routine maintenance services.

According to the technical services department of Suzuki Outboards in Brea, California, outboard owners needn't feel intimidated by modern outboard motors, especially when it comes to performing basic maintenance. In fact, outboard owners are doing themselves and their outboard motor a big favor if they make sure that proper care is being provided. Not only will this help the engine run better, but it will also promote greater dependability and ultimately reduce future repair costs.

Suzuki suggests that all outboard owners should first consult with their owner's manual regarding recommended maintenance procedures before starting any work. If the job appears too complicated and is not detailed with step by step instructions in the owner's manual, it is probably best left to a certified marine mechanic.

Generally, outboard owners are encouraged to periodically apply lubrication to vital engine components such as the steering system, throttle/shift linkage and the lower unit. Grease fittings, which are clearly identified in the owner's manual, require the use of a common grease gun to insure that adequate lubrication has been applied. Depending upon the environment and amount of usage, grease fittings should be serviced at least twice a year.

All outboard engines contain gear oil in the lower unit housing. This oil should be changed no less than once a year and can easily be done when the engine is out of the water, either on the boat or attached to an engine stand. In order to change the oil, two threaded plugs, one above and the other beneath, must be removed from the lower unit casing which will allow the used oil to drain out. Once all the old oil has emptied, fresh oil may be replenished through the bottom opening. Continue to add oil until it begins to flow out of

Own A Motorhome For Under $7,000

You can own a new motorhome for about $6,700: Sound unbelievable? The "working man's" motorhome is a truck camper mounted on your own truck. It's not as spacious as a 30-foot rig, but for economy and versatility, it can't be beat.

A fully equipped truck camper (for example, a top-line Fleetstar 950 by Starcraft), has real wood cabinetry, 5" thick bunk and dinette cushions, a three-burner range with oven, a toilet and a shower — even a full-length mirror.

A truck camper "motorhome" is ideal for small families.

For a free, full-color brochure showing typical truck campers with floorplans, features and options, write: Truck Camper Brochure, 2703 College Ave., Goshen, IN 46526.

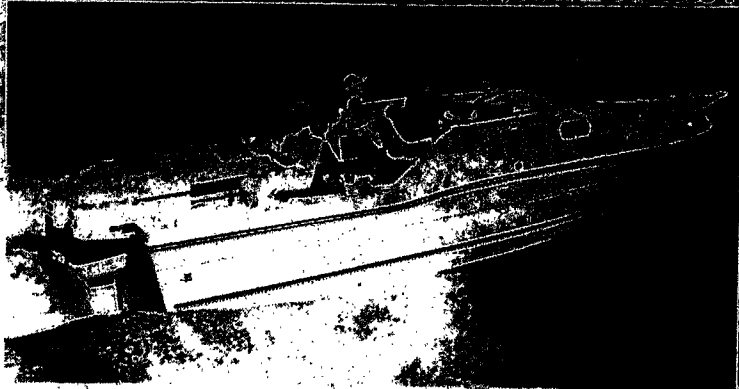

Because of the sophisticated technological improvements, some outboard owners are apprehensive about tackling even the most routine maintenance services. But many time and money saving maintenance procedures can be handled by consulting their owner's manual.

the top hole. Then insert the two plugs, tighten, and the changing process is complete.

To prevent the propeller from becoming stuck on the propeller shaft, it is recommended that it be removed at least twice each year and a small amount of grease be spread evenly around the prop shaft and propeller hub. This will minimize corrosion build-up and allow the propeller to be removed without the aid of special tools.

To keep an engine running at peak efficiency, an outboard owner should periodically check the condition of the spark plugs and fuel filter. Again, consult with the owner's manual for the correct size, gapping and heat range spark plug required. When installing new plugs, be sure not to over tighten. The owner's manual should provide a recommended torque setting. Likewise, fuel filters need to be inspected and cleaned periodically. The location and proper cleaning procedure should also be outlined in the owner's manual.

Modern outboards have never been more dependable and efficient, however, a conscientious owner maintenance program will significantly enhance the longevity and overall performance of the engine.

A few extra items on board could ensure more fun on the water.

Boating Is More Fun When You're Better Prepared

Boating safety begins by being properly prepared. That means having all the required Coast Guard equipment on board such as approved personal flotation devices, fire extinguisher, paddle or oar, proper registration, etc. However, that's just the start according to Suzuki Outboards of Brea, California, who offer these ten items as necessities the next time you go boating.

1) At least 25 feet of line strong enough to function as a tow rope in case of emergency. Never count on a dock line should you need to get or give a tow. This extra line should have a permanent loop on one end to make attachment more simple.

2) Spare outboard oil. You can't always count on a marina having two-cycle oil in stock. It's also better if you know what brand and quality of oil your engine is using.

3) Basic tool kit. Two screwdrivers standard and hex head style, two adjustable crescent wrenches, two pairs of pliers, a small hammer, vise grips a knife or wire cutters should get most jobs done. A spark plug wrench is also handy.

 Courteous Service
Friendly Atmosphere
Cleanest Stores in Town

PRICES GOOD APRIL 21 - 27, 1988

The logo features the brand name 'WINN-DIXIE' in a large, bold, sans-serif font. The letters are white with a thick black outline. A stylized circular emblem containing the letters 'W' and 'D' is positioned between the two parts of the name. Below the brand name, the tagline 'America's Supermarket' is written in a smaller, black, sans-serif font. The entire logo is set against a dark, textured background that resembles a close-up of a wooden surface.
